WORLD'S LARGEST LAND PLANE CRASHES

Sir Arthur Currie In Hospital Gains After Setback

Grave Concern Felt by Physicians in Montreal Early Today, but Former Victorian Rallies After Chill
Had Poor Night Declares Doctor

Canadian Press
Montreal, Nov. 22.—Gen. Sir Arthur Currie showed slight improvement at noon today, according to his physicians, and the grave concern felt earlier in the day had somewhat abated.

Sir Arthur, war-time commander of the Canadian army, who is now principal of McGill University, is suffering from a blockage of a blood vessel in the mid-brain.

"He had a bad night," said Dr. C. P. Martin, dean of the medical faculty at McGill, "but he has improved somewhat since the early morning examination." There was nothing, he added, to indicate Sir Arthur's condition was immediately dangerous.

Shortly after midnight Sir Arthur suffered a severe chill. Later, however, the distressing symptoms were modified, according to Dr. Martin.

Veteran Legislator Ill With Pneumonia In Montreal

Canadian Press
Montreal, Nov. 22.—Senator Rodolphe Lemieux is suffering from a slight attack of pneumonia, but his condition is not serious, according to word given out at his home here today. He contracted pneumonia on his way across the Atlantic. His condition had improved since he left New York for Montreal, it was stated.

Subsidence in the congestion was noted today and an improvement is expected by his physicians.

Senator Lemieux arrived here from New York early today and was taken to his home.

His wife, his brother Alphonse Lemieux of Montreal, and his doctors accompanied the Senator from New York.

He was able to walk from the train to an automobile and was not considered ill enough to be taken to a hospital.

He has been a notable figure in Canadian public life for many years. A barrister by profession, he was first elected to the House of Commons in 1896. For years he was a member of the cabinet of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and later from 1922 till 1930, was Speaker of the Commons. He was summoned to the Senate in 1930. He is sixty-seven years of age.

INQUIRES ABOUT PROPAGANDA MOVE

The British Embassy in Moscow is preparing a report regarding instructions alleged to have been issued recently by the Third International in Moscow to agents in India for subversive activities. It was Capt. Anthony Eden, Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, above, who informed the British House of Commons the report would be received soon.

Fourteen Are Carried To Death When K-7, Flying Over South Russia, Falls

CANADIAN HELD IN PARIS SOON MAY BE BACK HOME

Canadian Press
Paris, Nov. 22.—French authorities indicated this afternoon they would drop the case against Fulford Patrick Hardy, twenty-two-year-old son of Senator A. C. Hardy of Brockville, Ontario, if the family declined to prosecute.

Young Hardy is in the Santé prison, charged with "striking and injuring" in connection with an incident in which his mother suffered slight injuries.

Magistrate Gloria examined him today.

Chief evidence against Hardy is his mother's deposition, which she has not withdrawn.

Hardy today elaborated on his story of being attacked and struck on the head at the same time as his mother was injured. He said he had been robbed of 800 francs.

He had "a feeling robbers were in the car." He picked up the car's crank and hit on the head what he thought was a robber.

Magistrate Gloria said that if, after a mental examination, Hardy was found not responsible, the French authorities would seek to turn him over to the Canadian authorities with the suggestion "he be returned to Canada."

But if he were found mentally responsible he would probably be tried by a French court.

If the family does not offer evidence, however, the case will be dropped, according to prosecution authorities.

Machine With No Fuselage and Accommodation in Great Wing for 128 Persons and Baggage, Meets Disaster at Kharkov

Was Commissioned Only Last Week

Moscow, Nov. 22.—According to a dispatch from Kharkov, the newly constructed airplane K-7, said to be the largest plane for overland flying in the world, crashed there yesterday, fourteen persons being killed.

Among those killed were reported the chief pilot and mechanic and several Kharkov aviation officials, but beyond these facts no details were given out.

A Soviet government commission was appointed immediately to investigate the cause of the crash and establish responsibility for it.

The K-7 was a six-motored monoplane without the orthodox fuselage. Instead, all accommodations for luggage and fuel space as well as controls were in the wings. Only a slight framework of steel composed the structure on which the rudder was anchored.

COULD CARRY 128
The great airplane was designed to carry 128 persons, including its crew. It was designed with sleeping accommodations for sixty-four persons. It was commissioned only last week.

Kharkov is in southern Russia, 300 miles north of the Sea of Azov.

MISSING POLICE OFFICER FOUND

Toronto, Nov. 22.—Constable Alexander Christy missing since Monday, was brought from Belleville, Ont., to the Toronto General Hospital early today and entered as a patient. Police officials made no explanation of his absence.

It was believed yesterday Christy had committed suicide.

His automobile was found Tuesday near the falls at Niagara with his great coat, revolver and other personal effects nearby. Late yesterday evening relatives and police department officials investigating his absence went to Belleville, following a report he had been seen there. They brought Christy to Toronto today.

He is reported to be suffering from mastoid trouble.

Roosevelt Advances Dollar Scheme Despite Criticism

LITVINOFF SOON ON WAY HOME
Washington, Nov. 22.—Maxim Litvinoff apparently will return home prior to final settlement of Russian-United States debts and claims. Officials explained this would indicate no serious obstacle to a satisfactory understanding, but would result rather from the mass of material needing study.

The Soviet Commissar of Foreign Affairs now plans to sail from New York Saturday.

MARTIAL LAW ENDS
Bangkok, Siam, Nov. 22.—(Associated Press)—Siam's government lifted today the state of martial law proclaimed at the beginning of the October Revolution, which was not put down until here early today with his wife and an official of the Toronto police department.

MAYOR AIMS AT TAX CUT

AT TAX CUT
Gives Ratepayers' Delegation Views on City's Financial Position
No Borrowing on Capital Account; Debt Readjustment Plans

A pledge to do everything possible to lower taxation in Victoria was given by Mayor Leeming this morning to a delegation from the Victoria Ratepayers' Association which waited upon him to ask for a statement of his policies.

Capt. E. Gadsden, Capt. E. J. Butler and A. Slick composed the delegation, which had more than an hour's conversation with the mayor.

The mayor also said there would be no borrowing on capital account, and the only borrowing which might be done would be with the object of readjusting the city debt payments.

The city's relief administration was discussed at some length with the delegation, showing the costs during the last two years and the numbers receiving aid.

The mayor stated he would open early negotiations with the new Provincial Government in an endeavor to secure a readjustment of the financial relationships between the government and the city, which are believed to be inimical to the city's interests. This question probably will be part of the major problem handled through the Union of B.C. Municipalities.

National Radio In Capital Is Sought

Alderman Dr. J. D. Hunter Moves to Secure New Station Here
Justified From Revenue Paid by Radio Listeners in This Area

Establishment of a Canadian Radio Commission broadcasting station in Victoria is the object of a motion which Alderman Dr. J. D. Hunter will place before the City Council on Friday afternoon.

Dr. Hunter proposes the City Council take immediate steps through the federal member, D. B. Plunkett, to have negotiations opened with Ottawa for the operation of one of the nationally-controlled string of stations in the capital of the province.

He pointed out this morning that Victoria's one broadcasting station, while fulfilling certain purposes, did not adequately meet the requirements of a station to which a capital city is entitled.

"There should be a national station in the capital of each province," Dr. Hunter added. "We have our government radio here and if they wish to make a statement of public importance there should be facilities here enabling them to reach every corner of the province."

LARGE REVENUE HERE
He pointed out that, by a rough estimate, there are 12,000 receiving sets operated in Victoria and vicinity for which a yearly license of $2 is charged. This fee, aggregating $24,000 is turned over to the radio commission for the purpose of improving broadcasting within the Dominion and Victoria is justly entitled to receive some benefit from this.

The plan of the radio commission is to establish a few key stations at strategic points across the continent and then fill in with subsidiary stations to meet the local demands.

"While I do not know the commission's actual plans as far as Victoria is concerned, we should put in a bid now to have the city placed properly," (Turn to Page 2, Col. 2)

Exchange Swing Adverse To City

Must Pay Par on U.S. Commitments but Premium in London
Officials Study Possible Effect When Big Payments Due Next Year

Although Victoria lost several thousand dollars on its debt payments in New York when the Canadian dollar was at a discount in the United States, it receives no benefit from the recent swing in the exchange which has put the Canadian dollar at a premium, it was explained by D. A. Macdonald, the city comptroller, this morning.

At the same time, the sudden rise in the pound sterling affects the city adversely on its London payments which must be met at a substantial premium.

Payments by the city in the last few months of the year are not particularly large amounts, but treasury officials are studying the possible effect of the exchange if the present levels are maintained next year.

The city has, however, lost about $7,000 through exchange fluctuations this year, due, mainly, to the excess of its New York payments over London payments prior to the inauguration of the Roosevelt gold-buying policy which reversed the exchange situation.

In explaining the city's position on New York payments, the comptroller pointed out that the city could never get any benefit from depression of the New York dollar but would lose out when it was at a premium. This arises from the fact that the bonds involved are payable in either U.S. or Canadian funds at the holder's option. It is only natural, therefore, that when the U.S. dollar is at a premium, payment is demanded at New York, and when it is at a discount payment is demanded at par in Canada.

On the other hand, most of the London commitments are payable in sterling only, so the city is forced to buy sterling at the prevailing exchange rate and makes or loses according to the relation between the Canadian dollar and the pound.

TOKUGAWA TO VISIT HERE

Japanese Minister to Victoria to Spend Monday Making Formal Calls
Victoria will be visited on Monday next by His Excellency, the Hon. Iyemasa Tokugawa, Japanese Minister to Canada, who is returning to his official position in Ottawa after spending the summer in Japan, it was announced this morning by Ko Ishii, Japanese consul-general in Vancouver. The Minister will be accompanied by his daughter, Miss Toyoko Tokugawa.

The returning Japanese Minister is now approaching the shores of British Columbia, from the Orient, aboard the Japanese motor liner Hiyu Maru, due at the William Head quarantine station at midnight Friday. The ship will proceed to Vancouver and Mr. Tokugawa will spend the week-end in Vancouver, intending to come over here Monday morning and remain all day.

The Japanese Consulate in Vancouver has arranged for a call by the Minister and his daughter on Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Fordham Johnson at Government House and on the Premier, Mr. Bennett, at the Parliament Buildings. He will also meet prominent Japanese of the city.

Mr. Tokugawa and his daughter sailed from Victoria in April by the S. S. Empress of Canada to spend the summer in Japan. The Minister made an official report to his government in Tokyo, and then spent the hot part of the summer in the mountains near Nikko. In the fall he took a trip through Manchukuo and Korea. Before sailing for Canada he conferred with Hon. Herbert Marler, Canada's Minister to Japan.

Prince Tokugawa, senior Japanese statesman and father of the Japanese Minister to Canada, is at present visiting in Europe. He expects to arrive in Canada next month and will spend Christmas with his son, the Japanese Legation in the Canadian capital. He will then come on to the coast to sail for his home in Japan.

WEIR TO VISIT INSTITUTIONS

Provincial Secretary Plans Frequent Visits During Year
Health Insurance Legislation at Next Session Doubtful

Industrial homes, sanitariums, hospitals and other institutions coming under the Provincial Secretary's Department will be visited by the new Provincial Secretary, Hon. George M. Weir, as soon as he can find time to get away from his present duties at the Parliament Buildings.

Mr. Weir, who is also in charge of the Department of Agriculture, said this morning that he plans to keep in close contact with the institutions of the province and to accept recommendations and suggestions, many of which he has already received.

The new minister has devoted considerable study to health and nursing services and compiled a report on the subject in Ontario which was printed by the University Press. Health insurance is a matter to which he has given considerable thought and recommendations on this matter will probably be made by his department at a later date.

It was essential that when the scheme was launched it should be actually sound, the minister pointed out. The short time between the government's taking over office and the probable date of the next legislature gave little time for launching a scheme that would be assured of success.

Oranges From Orient Here

Empress of Canada Discharges Four for Every Person in Greater Victoria; Other Orange-laden Ships Due Victorians are to-day enjoying the first Japanese oranges delivered here for the Christmas season. The delectable small fruit from the orchards of Japan reached here this morning by the S. S. Empress of Canada, and a few hours later the oranges were on sale in retail stores, having passed through the wholesale houses in quick time.

Every ship from the Orient, from now until the New Year will bring consignments of oranges from across the Pacific.

There was a total shipment of 36,600 boxes of Japanese oranges aboard the Empress of Canada. Victoria received 5,000 boxes of this amount, the remaining 31,600 boxes being sent on to Vancouver en route to prairie points and cities in eastern Canada.

The oranges brought in about four oranges for each person in greater Victoria this morning. In each box are about fifty oranges, which makes a total of 250,000 in the shipment left at Victoria. In the shipment for Vancouver there were about 1,670,000 oranges.

ROOSEVELT WILL ACT ON SILVER

Washington, Nov. 22.—Senator Key Pittman, Nevada Democrat, in a message to-day to Sir George Schuster at New Delhi, India, declared President Roosevelt was considering action even before the United States Congress meets on the silver rehabilitation agreement reached at the London Economic Conference.

INDUSTRY ANTICIPATED

Labor Minister Working on Plan for Economic Council

Many Suggestions and Reports Offered to Hon. George S. Pearson

Encouraging signs that industrial leaders in the province will aid the government in providing continuity of employment and a more even distribution of work available are noted by Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor and Mines, as he is giving attention to the formation of the Economic Council which has been advocated during the election campaign.

The proposed council sprang from the plans for an Industrial Relations Board which were advocated by Mr. Pearson during his first session in the Legislature.

The government plans definite legislation to set up the council and define its powers at the first session of the new Legislature.

British May Purchase More Soviet Lumber

London Times Says Timber Distributors' Negotiations With Russia Still Under Way, With Bigger 1934 Total Than Last Year's Mentioned

Canadian Press
London, Nov. 22.—Contrary to reports that Timber Distributors Limited and agents of Russian timber exporters had signed a 1934 contract for importation of about 400,000 standards of Russian timber, the London Times said, to-day, negotiations for next year's contract were still proceeding.

According to The Times, the negotiations are on the basis of a supply of more softwood from Russia than this year, the maximum of all lumber contemplated being approximately 450,000 standards (891,000,000 feet, Canadian measure), compared with 435,000 this year.

The basic price would be higher, the newspaper added, at $18.50 per standard of seven-inch battens instead of $11.75.

In the House of Commons yesterday evening a Labor member, J. Batey, said it was "atrocious Canada should prevent Britain from entering into a new trade agreement with Russia."

ATMOSPHERE IS TENSE IN CUBA

Associated Press
Havana, Nov. 22.—New disorders in the interior of Cuba developed today as rumors of a threatened revolution were near, circulated in a tense and stifling atmosphere.

Seven bombs exploded in Camaguey province. One man was gravely wounded. Considerable property damage was reported.

Mascanillo port strikers in an ugly mood, fired on vessels in the harbor, but there were no casualties.

Soldiers remained at their posts around the palace.

EXCHANGE DOLLAR AT 1.03 1/2 TO-DAY

New York, Nov. 22.—The foreign exchange market here was quiet today, but while sterling and the French franc showed a sagging tendency, the Canadian dollar continued firm.

After opening 1 1/2 cents higher, the Canadian dollar receded to a premium of 3/4 where it closed half a cent above yesterday's figure.

Sterling turned easy when the Reconstruction Finance Corporation announced no change in its gold price. The close was $5.41, off one cent net.

The French franc finished .09 of a cent lower at 6.46 cents.

British Conservative Votes Show Big Cuts

Party Returns Rutland and Manchester Seats in Commons By-elections, but a Great Loss of Support Is Proved

Canadian Press
London, Nov. 22.—With a greatly reduced majority the Conservative reaction to the Rutland and Stamford seat in the House of Commons, it was shown when results of the by-election in that division of Lincolnshire were announced today.

The Rutland-Stamford result almost exactly duplicated the Rushmore by-election yesterday, when the Conservative vote was similarly cut drastically.

Lord Willoughby de Eresby, Conservative, was elected member for Rutland and Stamford with a vote of 14,505 to 12,818 for Arnold Gray, Labor, a majority of only 1,787 votes.

In the last general election Rutland and Stamford gave K. W. Smith, Conservative, who died recently, a majority of 13,904 in a straight fight with P. E. Church, Labor.

RUSHMORE VOTE
The Conservative vote in the Rushmore division of Manchester was cut from 24,817 in the last general election to 13,904 in yesterday's by-election, that being the vote with which E. A. Radford was elected in the three-cornered fight.

Rev. G. S. Woods, Labor, had 11,005 votes and Dr. F. McDougall, Independent-Liberal, 2,503.

In the last general election Rushmore gave 24,817 votes to Sir Frank Boyd Merriman, Conservative, 6,519 to J. Athead, Labor, and 4,658 to F. G. Tarnborough, Liberal.

EXCHANGE SWING ADVERSE TO CITY

However, the exchange rate between Canada and the U.S. has a decided bearing on the case, because the city is forced to do all its dealing in London through the New York Exchange. At the present time, for instance, the premium on the Canadian dollar enables the city to buy the pound cheaper in New York than it can be purchased with U.S. funds, he explained. But when the Canadian dollar was at a discount the city was forced to pay more for the pound in New York. This results from the fact that there is no direct money dealing between Montreal and London.

"The stabilization urged by him (Sprague) after his service in the Bank of England would have tied our dollar to the English pound. Professor Sprague's disloyal statement confirms misgivings long held by American industrialists and leaders of agriculture regarding him. The committee of the nation is headed by J. H. Rand Jr., New York industrialist."

U.S. DOLLAR IN LONDON

London, Nov. 22.—The United States dollar depreciated five cents on the foreign exchange market here to-day, closing at $5.41, to the pound sterling after staging a recovery of four cents from its day's low. Resignation of O. M. W. Sprague, former adviser to the Bank of England, from his post as special adviser to the Treasury in Washington, prompted speculative selling which made the dollar open weaker at $5.44 to the pound. Yesterday's closing price was $5.37 1/2 to the pound. The French franc weakened steadily to $3.98 on sales calculated to convert French currency into sterling, but support by the control fund helped it to recover to a close of $3.65.

ST. LAWRENCE ICE BLOCKADE EASES

Montreal, Nov. 22.—Conditions improved to-day on the St. Lawrence near Quebec and Montreal, as mild weather set in and thawed some of the ice which has impeded regular navigation for more than a week.

Lake steamers were reported moving through the Lachine and Sault canals to Montreal after complete stoppage of navigation there yesterday evening due to formation of thick layers of ice on the lock gates. Almost fifty vessels were held up between Montreal and Cardinal, Ont., either blocked in the ice themselves or delayed by blocked vessels.

The British freighter Pennyworth, grounded on the Island of Orleans, has been abandoned by most of her crew, with only two men left on watch. The government steamer Lord Strathcona also has left the freighter after standing by for days in hopes she might be refloated.

W. G. Smith Killed When
Ditcher Knocked Off Car
Near Hazelton

Canadian Press
Prince Rupert, B.C., Nov. 22.—Traffic on the Canadian National Railway northern line had returned to normal to-day after an accident to a ditcher yesterday in which W. G. Smith, twenty-eight, fireman of Smithers, B.C., was killed and Gus Mogden, engineer of Smithers, slightly injured. An inquest will be held.

The ditcher had been working on the clearing of a slide in the Bulkley Canyon, and was being pulled into New Hazelton to go on a side track to permit passage of a westbound passenger train. At the portal of a tunnel just east of New Hazelton, the ditcher is believed to have been knocked off the flat car on which it was being carried. As a result of the accident, the passenger train into Prince Rupert was delayed seven hours.

Loggers in Ontario Districts
Strike for Change in Conditions

Toronto, Nov. 22.—More than 2,500 bushmen in two widely separated areas of Northern and Northwestern Ontario to-day held out for increased pay and better working conditions. At Onion Lake, in the Northwestern part of the province, one man was detained as a result of a disturbance which Royal Canadian Mounted Police were called to quell.

Elsewhere the strikes were conducted without violence. Leaders of a walk-out in the area surrounding Cochrane claimed they had secured adherence of 1,500 men in their fight against conditions in camps of jobbers contracting for cuts with the Abitibi Power and Paper Company.

These men took exception to piece-work pay, which they claimed did not reach the maximum level of 3 cents a log offered by their employers, asked reduction in board rates from 90 to 75 cents and a uniform piece-work rate of 5 cents a log.

CANADA IS LOSING ITALY WHEAT SALES

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—Canada will lose a market which last year absorbed between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 bushels of its wheat when Italy imposes its prohibition of the domestic use of imported grain, announced in Rome yesterday by Premier Mussolini.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimated Italy bought between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 bushels of Canadian durum wheat last year in direct and indirect shipments. It was estimated also Italy purchased about 18,000,000 bushels of foreign wheat last year.

Manitoba will be hit hardest by Mussolini's ban, because 60 per cent of its crop has been durum. A surplus is used in the manufacture of spaghetti and macaroni.

TO TALK RELIEF WITH MINISTER

Victoria Delegation Will Meet
Hon. G. S. Pearson Next Tuesday

Hon. G. S. Pearson, Minister of Mines and Labor has granted an interview to the Victoria relief committee for next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock to discuss matters dealing with city relief.

Alderman Alex. Peden, chairman; Alderman P. R. Brown and Mayor Leeming, with the relief officer, E. G. Snowden, and the city controller, D. A. MacDonald, will attend.

It is understood the delegation will talk over with the minister the government's attitude toward the city relief allowances, which are higher than the maximum fixed by the Jones scale in view of the city's contention that living costs in Victoria are greater than in other parts of the province.

PARADES CLASH IN LONDONDERRY

Belfast, Nov. 22.—Rival political processions clashed in Londonderry to-day as campaigning continued lustily for the Northern Ireland general election November 30, although the unionist government has already been returned to power by virtue of acclamations. Republicans returning from a meeting at Rosemount, their band playing the "Soldiers' Song." Republican anthem, ran into a crowd of Orangemen who burst into "God Save the King." The Republican band played louder. The Orangemen sang more forcefully, otherwise the incident passed peacefully.

RUSH MEN TO FOREST FIRE

Conflagration Near Los Angeles
Gives Crews a Stiff Fight

Los Angeles, Nov. 21.—Defying the efforts of 600 or more trained fire fighters, a brush blaze which started at 8 o'clock yesterday evening in the foothills northwest of La Crescenta was still out of control this forenoon and more men were rushed to the area.

The fire so far had been confined to Pickets and Sutton Canyons, the county Fire Warden's office reported, and there was no immediate danger of any of the palatial residences in the section being destroyed.

Early this morning fear had been expressed for the buildings on two large estates, as well as a sanitarium. Ample stands by during the night, ready to remove the approximately twenty patients in case the flames should spread.

Spence Turner, county fire warden, said he was hopeful of bringing the flames under control within a few hours, although a stiff northeast wind was handicapping the fire fighters. Fire-breaks had been made around all buildings endangered by the blaze.

Only one building, a small cabin in Pickets Canyon, where the fire started, was being destroyed. A man and two children were reported to have fled from the cabin shortly before the flames, travelling rapidly, enveloped it.

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Nov. 22.—Thorough investigation of the handling of unemployment funds throughout British Columbia by the last administration, with a rider that anyone found guilty of "misfeasance in office" be prosecuted, is recommended in a resolution passed by the Vancouver and New Westminster District Trades and Labor Council.

Based on the announcement by Finance Minister Hart that approximately $1,500,000 marked for unemployment relief was not used for that purpose, the resolution was passed yesterday evening and forwarded to Premier Pattullo.

FOREST FIRE IN CALIFORNIA

Los Angeles, Nov. 22.—County Fire Warden Spence Turner to-day informed his headquarters here a brush fire raging along a two-mile front in a foothills residential district was out of control, and asked for more fire fighters.

Turner called from his field headquarters at La Crescenta. He expressed fear for the safety of at least two palatial estates in the Alta Canyon section.

Preparations were made for the evacuation of the Hillcrest Sanitarium, which has been housing about twenty patients, most of them suffering from tuberculosis are confined there.

STATES BRIDGE IS NECESSITY

Ald. R. T. Williams Tells Audience of Advantage of Seymour Narrows Span

More money had been spent by the Provincial Government upon constructing a bridge from Vancouver Island to the mainland across Seymour Narrows, independent candidate in Victoria, at a meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce last night. He made this statement in answering criticisms and objections that the construction of such a span would be a physical and monetary impossibility. He showed pictures of the country in which the Cariboo Road was being built and declared that the terrain around Seymour Narrows would not offer any worse obstacles.

The question of sweepstakes in aid of British Columbia hospitals was also discussed by Alderman Williams, who pointed out various accomplishments that had come as a result of the adoption of legalized "sweepstakes." State health insurance and unemployment insurance were also treated by the speaker.

Before the address, which was illustrated by colored lantern slides, Miss Della Hollins gave a musical programme. Frank Merryfield also entertained the audience with an exhibition of leggedamian. A collection taken in aid of the Sunshine Inn realized the sum of $5.25. On the platform with Alderman Williams were David Tucker and Arthur Hinder.

In a short speech Mr. Tucker made reference to the splendid work accomplished on the City Council by Mr. Williams and to his fighting spirit.

Several games were entered into by those present, two or three of which were conducted by Rev. E. B. McLean, secretary of the Religious Education Council for British Columbia. Mr. McLean also spoke briefly to the young people. The singing of "Abide With Me" and the pronouncing of the benediction by Mr. McLean brought the evening to a close.

Next Monday a hard-time party will be held, commencing at 7.15 o'clock. All who attend will wear their old clothes.

Mr. Denison also reported this morning he had recorded two other earthquakes within the last twenty-four hours. At 9.21 yesterday evening a faint record was made at Gonzales.

Only the first surface wave reached here and Mr. Denison was unable to estimate how far away the quake was. At 4.55.30 this morning a long-distance quake was recorded, continuing for three hours. Mr. Denison estimated the centre was 6,200 miles away, probably in the Philippine Islands. The first wave was indistinct.

Young People's Church Societies

METROPOLITAN YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY

About sixty young people attended the regular Monday evening meeting of the Metropolitan Young People's Society. After the singing of several hymns the young people entered their various groups for the taking of attendance records and the discussion of projects planned for the future.

Following this, a worship service which had for its theme "The Great Creator," was conducted by Miss E. Mutch, who read the selection, "Out Under the Shining Stars." The hymn, "O Worship the King, All Glorious Above," was sung, followed by the reading of Psalm 100, by Maude Land. "I Love to Sing of That Great Power," was then sung, after which Harriet Bligh led in prayer. A solo, "Out of the Ivory Palaces," was rendered by Miss E. Jones, and "Silent Places," was read by Harry Bates. The service concluded with the singing of "Come Let Us All Unite to Sing."

A humorous debate on "Resolved That the Government Supply Standing Army With Chairs," was contested with group "A" taking the affirmative, and group "B" the negative. The group "A" team consisted of Miss Hazel McPherson and Jack Church, and group "B" of Miss Ida Tatham and Alfred Redfern. The debate was much enjoyed, and was decided by popular vote, group "A" winning.

Several games were entered into by those present, two or three of which were conducted by Rev. E. B. McLean, secretary of the Religious Education Council for British Columbia. Mr. McLean also spoke briefly to the young people. The singing of "Abide With Me" and the pronouncing of the benediction by Mr. McLean brought the evening to a close.

Next Monday a hard-time party will be held, commencing at 7.15 o'clock. All who attend will wear their old clothes.

ROADS TO AID INDUSTRIES

Transportation From Mines and Plants Engage Minister's Attention

Although he enters office finding little money available for public works, Hon. F. M. MacPherson hopes to be able to help industries of British Columbia by maintaining road connections as far as possible.

The new Minister of Public Works plans soon to tour the province, starting with a tour of Vancouver Island next week. Little public work is being done beyond road work and this will be surveyed by Mr. MacPherson.

Many wires and letters have been received at his office pointing out the need for new roads and maintaining existing roads, including some from Barriereville and Quesnel. Every effort will be made, says Mr. MacPherson, to preserve mining developments by road connections, and in other expenditures, consideration of industries will play an important part.

STYLE ADVISER IN VICTORIA

To act as costume adviser for the second motion picture to be produced in Victoria, Miss Marguerite Adams, Hollywood stylist and fashion adviser to screen stars of the film capital, reached Victoria Thursday evening aboard the liner Dorothy Alexander.

Four Pacific Northwest women shortly became a real producing centre for sound pictures, in which many of the best-known stars of Hollywood and New York will appear, Miss Adams stated. "Victoria and the Surrounding

St. John's A.T.P.A. For a few hours the members much enjoyed water sports. Those present for the evening included the Misses Sylvia Schofield, Evelyn Hooper, Vivienne Dods, Betty Martin, Phyllis Gale, Lenora Trickett, Edna Howcroft, Kase Brown, Denise Thompson, Lucy Merton, Doris Hole, Jessie Falconer, Thora Harrison, Iris Smith, Florence Malcom and John Hooper, Stanley and Jack Laver, Stanley Cooper, Fred Gale, Jim White, Lenard Parsons, Irving Archer, Alan Paver, Bill Hole, Frank Erickson, Lawrence Knight. It was announced by John Hooper that a business meeting would be held next Monday in place of the visit to the Aged Women's Home, which would take place the following Monday.

KEEP CONTACT WITH PEOPLE

In line with Premier Pattullo's statement at the big Liberal rally in Victoria that the present government would be a government of the people and would endeavor to keep in touch with the people at all times, announcement was made to-day that a government office will be opened in the courthouse at Vancouver.

The office has been opened so that ministers may meet there at intervals and interview persons who wish to see them on affairs of the province. It will not be for the exclusive use of people of Vancouver as delegations from the Fraser Valley or any other part of British Columbia will be received.

Two or three days' notice will be given before the members of the cabinet go to Vancouver so that delegations or others who wish to present matters may be on hand. The new office, it is anticipated, will save considerable time for some persons who wish to interview members of the cabinet.

BOY SCOUTS TO GO TO SEATTLE

Eighty Victoria Boys to Attend
International Gathering

Eighty Victoria Boy Scouts, one of the largest contingents ever to leave Victoria for a conference, will sail on Thursday afternoon, November 30, for Seattle, where they will attend the fourteenth International Patrol Leaders' Convention in the Sound City on December 1, 2 and 3. The boys will be accompanied by Major J. Wise, district commissioner for Victoria.

Patrol leaders, troop leaders and rovers will make up the Victoria delegation. The local boys are very anxious to make a good showing at the gathering after the letter received from Lord Baden-Powell at the local headquarters after the convention in Vancouver two years ago. In his letter, the commander-in-chief of the scouts expressed his pleasure at reading in the official reports that the Victoria delegation made a better showing as to details of correct uniform than any other contingent.

Mutual problems and plans for the betterment of existing conditions in the Boy Scout movement will be discussed during the three-day conference.

KIDNAP HUNT IS WIDENED

"Then the woman started away with the kidnaped boy and one man drove away in the roadster, fast," Mrs. Silveria said. "I am sure," she said, "There were four men in the sedan besides the young man."

LIVELY ULSTER CAMPAIGN SEEN

Government Party Already Has Majority, But Candidates at Work in 18 Ridings

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Belfast, Nov. 22.—Belfast and the north take their politics merrily. Following the nominations Monday for the northern Ireland general election, when there were sufficient acclamations to assure return to power of Viscount Craigavon's Unionist government, there are contests listed in only eight of Belfast City's sixteen divisions, and in eighteen seats throughout the six counties.

But the battle waxes furious in those constituencies where polling will be held November 30, even if the issue has been decided. Candidates tour the constituencies mounted on old-time waggons. They brandish gaily decorated shillings in memory of the days that were.

Sometimes rival parades cross and snappy intervals interrupt the sweet harmonies.

THREE RECORDS
The nominations Monday, when acclamations in thirty-four seats gave the government a pre-polling majority of three over all in the new parliament, are thought to have established three records:

Viscount Craigavon is the first Premier to secure re-election of his government in four successive fights.

Return of the entire cabinet by acclamation is without parallel anywhere. The present Northern Ireland government has had the longest uninterrupted tenure of office of any government now in power in the world—twelve years.

"The Loyalists of Ulster," commented The Belfast Telegraph, "are as determined as ever they will not be swallowed up in the vortex of Free State republicanism, whether of the O'Duffy or Eamon de Valera varieties." In this matter the Loyalists recognize no difference between the Free State parties because the "United Irelanders" have no real attachment to the empire.

On the other hand, at Derry yesterday evening Sean McCool, Republican candidate, declared in a fiery speech: "We are contesting the election to let the people prove they stand for complete independence and the republic of Ireland, and because the members calling themselves Nationalists have misrepresented the people. We intend in this generation to smash the British-made border and every trace of imperialism in Ireland."

DE VALERA CANDIDATE

Belfast, Nov. 22.—President Eamon de Valera of the Irish Free State was nominated Monday a candidate in the northern Ireland general election as a Nationalist in County Down, old Nationalist stronghold. But if he is elected on November 30 and stands by his principle of retaining the oath of allegiance to the crown, it will cost him $750.

WEATHER RUNS IN SET CYCLE

U.S. Scientists Say Twenty-three-year Electric Phase in Sun Rules World

Associated Press

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 22.—Evidence electric control weather all over the world was announced to the National Academy of Sciences here yesterday.

The electric control runs in a definite cycle, causing rains, droughts and heat apella to repeat themselves once every twenty-three years, with comparatively minor variations for individual localities.

The electric cycle comes from the sun. Spinning like a big top, the sun's Northern and Southern hemispheres are electrically charged the opposite of each other, one positive, the other negative. These charges reverse from North to South, taking twenty-three years for the change. The charges come from the black, whirling sunspots.

The report was made by Charles G. Abbot, Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, Washington. An explanation issued by the institution said this electrical cycle was the "discovery of what appears to be a fundamental climatological interval in nature, second only to the year itself."

"The weather of 1934," said this report, "will have the same general pattern—differing of course in day by day details—as the weather the world has experienced in 1911."

"Next summer would have the same general weather pattern as the world experienced during the summer of 1911. The discovery makes a long step forward toward the day of long-range forecasting."

PAPER PROFITS WERE $4,000,000

By Nathan Robertson, Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, Nov. 22.—Senate stock market investigators yesterday received evidence that bankers who financed organization of the General Theatres Equipment Corporation in 1929 made paper profits of more than $4,000,000 within a few weeks by pool operations in the holding company's stock.

The evidence showed that while the pools were operating the price of the stock rose from $20 a share, which the bankers paid, to more than $60 within two months.

Murray Dodge, former vice-president of the Chase Securities Corporation, which participated in the financing, said the profits were not actually realized.

ALASKA MAN AND WIFE SWINDLED

Associated Press

San Francisco, Nov. 22.—Police shook their heads when Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dubois, formerly of Tokotna, Alaska, told this story of their missing hard-earned $18,000.

They set out from Alaska to see a bit of the world with the money, obtained from sale of their store. At Hoquiam, Wash., they met "such a nice man," who traveled with them to Tacoma. On the way they "found" a wallet with a $100,000 bond in it, and returned it to the Tacoma "owner," who was so grateful he promised to show them how to make $500,000 on the races. They turned over their money, and were directed to come to San Francisco to recover it and its "winnings" from a man at a hotel here. They haven't found him.

B.C. HONEY WINS AT EMPIRE SHOW

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Nov. 22.—Leonard Harris, veteran beekeeper of Vernon, effectively swept the honey board at the British Empire Exhibition just held in Bristol, according to cable reports. Apparently, British Columbia took sixteen awards out of a total of nineteen, including all the firsts and seconds.

The full prize list is not yet available, but it is reported Mr. Harris is unbeaten in six competitions. This is a notable achievement in a show regarding which Judge Short says he has never seen a more attractive display anywhere.

Mr. Harris is a retired provincial apiary inspector, who now supplies the C.P.R. diners with toothsome sweets for breakfast.

The finest empire granulated honey was that shown by H. C. Derrick of the Blackburn market, Vancouver. Nine other British Columbia winners are yet to be announced.

Plane Carrying Lee Tracy and Pilot Fails to Reach El Paso

Mexico City, Nov. 22.—Fears for the safety of the missing Lee Tracy, United States stage and screen star, were expressed to-day by officials of the motion picture company with which he is associated. Tracy fled by airplane yesterday, although police said he had promised to remain here pending investigation of charges of offending public morals.

His plane, piloted by Fritz Bieler, was due at El Paso about 2:30 yesterday afternoon but no word has been received here of its arrival. Neither have officials received any word from Hollywood, California.

Bieler took off from the Central Airport at 8:15 a.m. yesterday and should have arrived in El Paso about six hours later.

IN THE TAXPAYERS' INTERESTS

One of the most important problems with which the Pattullo government has promised to deal as quickly as possible is that of the financial relations between the province and the municipalities. Realizing the urgent necessity of giving the latter a "new deal," the Premier selected Mayor A. Wells Gray of New Westminster for his Minister of Lands with the understanding that a department under Mr. Gray's supervision would be created to deal exclusively with civic affairs as they involve the government.

Hon. Mr. Gray is well known all over British Columbia for his intimate knowledge of municipal matters in all their intricate detail. For many years he has made a close study of his subject, not from a purely academic standpoint but in the school of practical experience, since he had come to be regarded as something in the nature of a permanent institution as Mayor of New Westminster as well as one of the most influential and far-seeing contributors to the deliberations of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities. In charge of Mr. Gray, this department of the public service may be depended upon to produce results.

In this regard, moreover, the government is fortunate in having such an experienced official as Mr. Robert Baird, who for more than a quarter of a century has been actively associated with municipal matters and the multifarious details of civic finance and administration; and for twenty years he has very ably filled the position of Inspector of Municipalities under the McBride, Bowser, Brewster, MacLean, and Tolmie governments. Hon. Mr. Pattullo will make no mistake in raising the status of Mr. Baird and making him Deputy Minister of Municipalities. Minister and deputy, of course, have worked together in the civic sphere for a long time; they thus are admirably equipped to advise the government.

The problem of the municipalities has become acute because just at a time when civic authorities had gone their limit in taxing real property, along came the late government and lopped off substantial sums in respect of grants which had helped out the municipalities in other years; and in addition to this serious curtailment of their revenue, the government began to charge them with some of the cost of the social services. The present situation, however, simply cannot be allowed to continue. Mr. Pattullo realizes this, and, as he said before the election, his party is pledged to a policy designed to place the municipalities on a sounder financial footing.

What has not been realized is that by reducing grants to the municipalities the government has merely been adding to its own difficulties, even though it has helped to make the provincial balance sheet look a little better than it otherwise would have looked. A policy which might drive municipalities into bankruptcy naturally is of no benefit to the province, for if a municipality should default its obligations, it is the province which must come to the rescue. No municipality wants to put a black mark against itself by repudiating its debts; but if the policy inaugurated by the provincial government in recent times had been allowed to continue, this is precisely what would have happened.

This matter of municipal taxation is of vital interest to the taxpayers of Victoria. We can not conceive of them sending to the Legislature next Monday any representative in opposition to the government, whose proposals, among many others, for the betterment of the municipal financial and taxation structure should be sanctioned as quickly as possible.

THE TURNING TIDE

Within the last month there have been five by-elections to fill vacancies in the British House of Commons. Four of them have been retained by the government and one of them was a very striking gain for the Labor party. Polling took place in the Rusholme division of Manchester and the Rutland and Stamford division of Lincolnshire yesterday. The combined decrease in the Conservative vote, compared with that in the general election two years ago, was no less than 15,394, and a combined Conservative majority reduced from 25,480 to 2,183.

In the former riding in 1931 the Conservative standard-bearer ran up a majority of 13,840 over the joint vote of the Labor and Liberal candidates. In the latter on the same occasion a straight fight between a Conservative and a Laborite gave the Conservative a majority of 11,640. The fight in Rusholme yesterday resulted in a Conservative majority over the total of the Laborite and Independent vote of only 396, or a drop in the favorable margin of 13,444 votes. In the Rutland and Stamford division in a straight fight between a Conservative and a Laborite the former won by a majority of 1,787, or a decline in the favorable margin of 10,053.

The Rusholme result was as follows: E. A. Radford, Conservative, 13,904; Rev. S. G. Woods, Labor, 11,005; Dr. F. McDougall, Independent, 2,503. In the Rutland and Stamford division the result was as follows: Lord Willoughby de Eresby, Conservative, 14,605; Arnold Gray, Labor, 12,818. Both these constituencies are traditionally Conservative and with the exception of the tariff election of 1923, when the Manchester riding elected a Liberal Free Trader in a three-cornered contest on a minority vote, continuous Conservative representation has been maintained for a quarter of a century.

The definite swing of the tide against the National Government set in with a vengeance in the East Fulham contest a month ago. On that occasion a Conservative plurality in 1931 of 12,733 was turned into a Labor majority in a straight fight of no less than 4,840. There followed early this month a four-cornered contest in the Skipton division of Yorkshire (West Riding), where the joint opposition vote showed a majority against the government of 5,944; the Conservative, however, retained the seat. In 1931 the Conservative majority over Labor's candidate in a straight fight mounted up to the large total of 14,960. The next government test was in the Kilmarnock division of Ayr and Bute, also a four-cornered election, where a National Laborite, or government supporter, headed the poll with 12,577 votes; but against him was a combined opposition vote of 23,597, or an anti-government margin of 11,020. Here again in a straight fight with an anti-government Laborite in 1931 the National Laborite rolled up a majority of 7,036.

It will be observed from this comparison of votes and majorities that while the government profits in cases where the vote against it is split, the state of mind of the people at present obviously is very different from what it was two years ago. They do not like indefinite terms of Union governments in Great Britain. The electorate was appealed to under special conditions in 1931 just as it was immediately after the war, and agreed that an emergency existed—that it had better be tackled with a united front. But it will be remembered that the coalescing party leaders announced at that time that after the urgent problems had been solved, political lines again would be drawn. Mr. MacDonald was emphatic on the point that no party would lose its political identity. Much water, of course, has flowed under Westminster Bridge since then. But the by-elections are symptomatic of public desire in political matters.

MR. PATTULLO AND OTTAWA

Premier Pattullo intends to proceed to Ottawa shortly to discuss with the federal government the subject of effective co-operation between the Dominion and province in working out a comprehensive employment programme. There is to be, also, a conference of provincial governments for the consideration of this and other important matters affecting the country.

It has been glaringly obvious for a long time that Canada's most urgent need has been the mobilization, under combined governmental and industrial auspices, of all of the resources of the nation for the solution of its economic problems. That proposal has been made at Ottawa time and again, but without effect. Evidently the idea is beginning to penetrate the mind of federal officials. Mr. Bennett's recent announcement of his intention to devise a programme of public works early next year being a concession to the demands which have been made upon him from many quarters, and which have been implied by the result of the three by-elections recently held in New Brunswick, Quebec and Saskatchewan. Watchful waiting behind a high tariff wall has proved disastrous.

No other country on earth presents such prospects for a bold and courageous policy of development with a view to improving its economic conditions as Canada does. Indeed, with so much new country to be opened up, so many basic resources to develop, so vast a scope for colonization, the lack of vision and initiative indicated by the policy of drift and stagnation which has been adopted is simply appalling. Canada should have been the last country in the world even to think of the role.

Mr. Pattullo appreciates all of the possibilities of the situation and proposes to try to impress that appreciation upon Ottawa. In this he should be supported by the entire province. He has asked particularly for the endorsement of this city in the election next Monday by the return of his Minister of Finance and his three associates on the government ticket, and we shall be very much surprised if Victoria does not show that it has caught something of his vision, optimism and courage, and will give him the mandate he seeks.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

NEWSPAPER ENGLISH
 The Winnipeg Tribune

Newspapers, like the weather, are considered as legitimate subject for criticism whenever two or three are gathered together. They may be pardoned therefore if they make the most of any bouquet that may come their way.

Dr. Allen Sinclair Will, head of the department of journalism at Rutgers University, finds cause for congratulation in the English now being used in the newspapers of the country. "All but impeccable," is the way he expresses it.

"The English used at the present time in the best newspapers," Dr. Will adds, "is not inferior to that which may be seen in current literature finding acceptance from a large body of discriminating readers. Newspapers do not use or wish to use Victorian English. Their preference is for the vigorous speech current among cultivated people."

Possibly the English of newspapers stands comparison so well with that "seen in current literature" because current literature has not declined to follow the direct and forthright style set by the newspapers. This is true in fiction, and more true in biography. One is the mellifluous fiction style with sentences as sweet as the briar-rose and with stems as complicated and prickly. It is simplicity which newspaper English has contributed to so-called current literature—directness without flourish.

SUNDAY FOR SLEEPING
 The Manchester Guardian

This week-end traffic problem is not as new as it is thought it was (writes "W.V.N."). Nearly two hundred years ago England had its road hogs and other disturbers of the countryside peace and safety. I have just been reading a letter sent to The World in 1753. "It is my misfortune," says the writer, "to live in what is called a pleasant village upon one of the great roads within seven miles of London, where I am almost suffocated with dust every Sunday in the summer, occasioned by those crowds of prentice boys who are whipping their hired hacks to death or driving their crazy one-horse chairs against each other, to the mortal havoc of young children."

After lamenting in ironical vein that "before Christianity was entirely reasoned out of these kingdoms it was a mighty custom for young folks to go to church on that day," the writer says that the best thing to do on Sunday is to go to bed. "This will indeed be making it a day of rest . . . and permission should be given to those who cannot sleep in their beds to go to church and sleep there."

A THOUGHT

And he shall go before him in the spirit and power of Elias, to turn the hearts of the fathers to the children, and the disobedient to the wisdom of the just; to make ready a people prepared for the Lord.—St. Luke 1:17.

Greatness lies not in being strong, but in the right use of strength.—Becher.

Loose Ends

We do the first honest thing and it's all very distressing to eminent gentlemen.—The savings are neglected as we consider certain amazing figures.—Editors are funny that way.—A curious visitor is received—and is treated as you would expect.

By H. E. W.

HONEST

PERSONALLY, I am very poor at figures. When you get up into millions—and who nowadays speaks in lesser terms?—I am floored. Stinking funds, funded debts, overdrafts, current liabilities—they all leave me in a whirl. Nevertheless I was able to see some light in Finance Minister Hart's speech the other night. Listening carefully and using my powerful imagination I was able at least to form some hazy notion about our current financial situation in British Columbia. I formed the impression, in brief, that we were broke.

So far as I could make out, we have been broke for years without knowing it. We have been broke and hog-wild, spending far more than our income, piling up our debt, cheating ourselves and our bond-holders and generally behaving in a fashion which, in private life, would have lost us our house and silverware long ago. In private life, indeed, when a man diverts trust funds, he goes to jail, where he belongs. In government, when you divert trust funds, you go to the country with flying colors, and while you don't always come back, you remain a distinguished citizen, who may be called into office again four years hence.

Some financial experts may deplore Mr. Hart's exposure, which they will have always insisted on keeping their heads and ours buried deep in the sand in a fashion which would shame any ostrich. They have always said that we must never say anything that would undermine our credit; though we could go on doing every thing to ruin our credit without any serious protest for, don't forget, whenever we borrow some money and go deeper into the hole, there is a ripe commission in it for some eminent gent on St. James Street.

NOT DONE

ON NO account must the public suspect the truth. At all costs, that great and glorious myth of our credit must be protected, for the financial experts never really trusted the public, have no real use for it and regard it as very dangerous to prosperity. Thus distortion of the facts is known in government as sound finance. In private life it is known by other names.

At last, we have done the first honest thing in years. We have admitted, as most of the large countries of the world, including Great Britain, have admitted, that our debt charges must be adjusted.

EARWIGS

AN INDEPENDENT reader has written me three times now, demanding that I deal in this column with the earwig nuisance. He seems to think that if I say something nasty about the earwigs that they will crawl away from Victoria in shame. Alas, I can mould empires and ruin governments, but the earwigs pay no attention to me.

At last my friend wrote me to-day saying that he supposed newspaper offices were seething so much about the results of the election and the prospects of the by-elections and Mr. Hart's financial expose that we had no time for earwigs. Oh, dear yes, the newspaper offices are seething about politics, and especially about Mr. Hart's revelations. The editors and reporters can hardly do their work at all. I happened to be in the city room of this paper to-day and I listened for a few minutes to the seething.

"I tell you it's a knock out," said the old reporter.

"Tremendous—never saw anything like it," said the cub.

"Wait till the public sees this," said the political expert.

"The theatre was crowded to the doors," said the copy reader.

"The people seemed to be just shocked—almost stunned you would say," said the old reporter.

"What do you expect," said the political expert. "They didn't hide anything. Nothing left to the imagination. It sure is a sensation. They say it even shocked New York."

"The figures," said the sports editor. "I could hardly believe it possible."

"Figures—oh, boy," said the cub. "I am glad to see. I said, 'that you gentlemen are so profoundly interested in our politics and provincial finances.'"

"Finances?" said the sports editor. "What are they anyway? We've been talking about Mac West in 'The No Angel.' And boy, if you think Jack Hart is exciting, you ought to see her!"

INCURABLE

SOMETIMES I wonder on what basis of logic letters are written to the editors of newspapers. More often I wonder on what basis they are inserted in the newspapers after being received. I mean, why must we endure, every five days, the outpouring of the same minds? Why not a few different ones? Is there no way of stopping some of those who write again and again year after year, on the same subject, without one new idea to rub against another? Those who feel called upon to reveal the ultimate truth of religion in half a column; the stirring patriots who want to save the empire in five hundred words; the gentlemen who are on special terms with Providence and are able to disclose the prophetic meaning of every obscure passage in the Bible, as it relates to the current election or the shortage of our provincial sinking funds; these priests of a new economic order who feel that they can re-make mankind after supper—can nothing be done about them? Have a heart, Mr. Editor.

CHRISTIAN

EDITORS, you know, have a great time. Everybody brings his troubles to some editor, from cabinet ministers to ladies whose names were spelt wrongly in the paper in connection with a whist drive at Lake Hill. Some years ago an editor received a curious visitor, a shabby gentleman with a penetrating look who said: "Good day, Mr. Editor, I am the Lord." This did not take the editor aback. Nothing takes editors aback. This editor, as a matter of fact, had talked only the week before to a gentleman who assured him that he was Moses and who was followed within the hour by a railway president, a prime minister and two prize fighters. So when the shabby fellow said, "I am the Lord," the editor replied: "I am pleased to meet you, sir. Please be seated."

"Yes, I have come to earth again," said the stranger.

"Excuse me," said the editor. "I know just the man you are looking for. I do not doubt you, for I cannot prove that you are not the Lord. I am too old a newspaperman to doubt anything I cannot disprove. But this other man will know in a second whether you are the Lord or not and will make you welcome. This other man is one of your earthly adherents."

Whereupon the editor telephoned a minister and told him he was sending a distinguished visitor to see him. "Why, that man you sent is crazy. He thinks he is the Lord!"

"How do you know," said the editor, "that he isn't?"

"Don't be ridiculous," said the minister. "Why, the fellow is obviously insane."

"Just what would the Lord look like if he came to earth?" said the editor. "Wouldn't he be poor and shabby?"

"I decline to argue with you," said the minister. "I have turned the fellow over to the police."

"You would," said the editor. "That's just what they did before."

The minister hung up the phone indignantly. The pagan editor lighted a cigar.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

THE TREASURE
 The sombre casket of my memories
 Holds all the gifts I had from fate, austere;
 That lover who with lover's sweet falsetto
 Left me a sigh, a promise and a tear.

That shining house of hope I built on sand,
 Only to see it swallowed by time's tide,
 That joy which fluttered past my out-
 stretched hand
 And left me with my dream of song denied.

Sometimes I take them out and muse again
 Upon the thoughts of raptures fleet as dawn,
 Upon the poignant passages of pain
 And all things else that now are past and gone.

And, fair as the full moon in amber glow,
 Beneath the spray of myrtle and of rose,
 The brightest gem from all life's changeful show
 Lies there, the pearl that is memories of you.

DEMANDS FACTS FROM PREMIER

Dr. Clem Davies Attacks Moodie Appointment and Asks Work Particulars Labor Satisfied With Pearson's Selection, Says Harry Owen

Centring a storm of censure around Major S. F. M. Moodie on the grounds that he could not officiate as assistant to the Premier and retain the post of Liberal organizer for the province, and invoking Premier T. D. Pattullo to announce particulars of the work programme he spoke of during his campaign, Dr. Clem Davies addressed a meeting of about fifty in St. Mary's Hall, Oak Bay, yesterday evening, soliciting support for his independent candidacy in Victoria riding.

Major Moodie could not serve this province as assistant Premier and remain Liberal organizer of British Columbia, Dr. Davies said, after quoting the proverb of the two masters.

To remain in his position Major Moodie would have to forewear his post as party organizer, as a civil servant he had to cut himself away from politics, the speaker declared.

Did Mr. Pattullo think, with Liberals elected in Victoria and Vancouver, he would become a Hitler and make Major Moodie Minister of Propaganda? he asked.

He queried the selection of the minister, calling it a compromise with all parties of the province.

Why had that "brilliant legal mind," Mr. Manson, been left out of the cabinet and a "hardened youth" put in his place? Dr. Davies asked.

He attacked Mr. Pattullo's declared reason why Victoria should return four Liberals.

NOT IN CABINET
Two strong Liberals, McGeer and Manson, had been elected and two others, who had not been elected, had been taken into the ministry. Why, he queried?

Dr. Davies attacked Mr. Hart's casting of Mr. Jones, saying he could see the mote in Mr. Jones's eye, but could not see the beam in his own.

Speaker then directed fire upon the Liberal slogan, asking how the election of four Liberal candidates could help Victoria. He refused any answer they could give, but said it might be that a certain trucking firm might get patronage. He called for particulars instead of glittering generalities. In his speech Monday night, Mr. Pattullo had not said what he intended to do for British Columbia, Mr. Davies said.

The work and wages programme had to be implemented immediately, or there would be trouble, and not only from the working men but from the business men, he said.

He called upon the Premier "to deliver the goods," not to deal in vague words.

"What about the work the Premier spoke of, what was it?" he asked.

Dr. Davies censured Finance Minister's "crazy prattle," which, he said, was destroying British Columbia's credit. Reckless statements made Monday evening had done more to brand Mr. Hart as being unfit for office, he continued, than the latter's remarks "political sabotage." Nothing, he said, was better calculated to invite recidivism in the province.

Dr. Davies charged Mr. Hart's previous speeches with bringing down B.C.'s bonds three points.

"Tammany politics" was the phrase used by Dr. Davies in describing the appointment of Major Moodie. He was not going to stop until Major Moodie was out of the post of Liberal organizer or the assistant premiership, he declared.

He charged the Liberals with dismissing polling station employees to put in Liberal Party leaders.

Answering what he termed a whispering campaign, he stated he was not, as was maintained by some, against the Wednesday half holiday.

"If you believe that we ought to select the strongest possible men for the opposition—men free from the shackles of party, free from the stench and mess of Tammany stables—then put in the four men you want in the opposition, and you will then not only help Victoria, but you will lift the morale of those 160,000 voters who desire to be represented in the government of your province, to act as a watchdog against the old party system," he concluded.

Speaking of the rally in the Royal Victoria Theatre last Saturday, Harry Owen, Labor candidate, questioned the construction which could be placed on the statement of Hon. John Hart regarding the funds for teachers' pension and superannuation. There were no funds missing, he said. The funds were put into general revenue and expenditures were met from it.

PEARSON LAUDED
Mr. Owen voiced Labor's appreciation of the appointment of the Hon. George E. Pearson. Organized Labor was quite satisfied, he said.

It was time to amend the Minimum Wage Act to look after the lumber industry, he declared, adding the same thing should be done with the Hours of Work Act in British Columbia. He saw the necessity for a six-hour day.

The matter of mothers' pensions had been badly abused by the Toimie administration as well as by the previous Liberal government. The latter was too generous, he declared.

He charged the Toimie administration with increasing the superannuation of a member's brother while a heedy widow was refused pension.

He touched upon social measures introduced by the Liberals, saying most of them were forced on the government.

Mr. Owen compared living costs with wages, saying mill workers were about as badly off as those on relief.

HURT TERRIBLY

Fortunately her mother remembered T.R.-C's. Relief from Pain immediate. Rheumatism driven right out.

"Two years ago I had a dreadful attack of Inflammatory Rheumatism," writes Miss Ruth Sage, Willowdale, Ontario. "The pain was excruciating. Mother put a cardboard box over me to keep the weight of the bed clothes off, for the weight even of a sheet hurt me terribly. My knees and hands were swelled and out of shape, and the treatment I was getting did me little good."

"Then mother remembered that seven years before she had used T.R.-C's (Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules). She got me a $1 box right away, and it was wonderful to find I got relief right from the first dose. A box of two gave me relief again; and after three or four $1 boxes I was satisfied they had driven every trace of the Rheumatism from me." Deep-rooted, stubborn cases of Rheumatism require patient and correct use of T.R.-C's for a reasonable length of time; but you are sure of relief if you persist with T.R.-C's. Repeatedly they have given safe, speedy relief from Acute Rheumatic suffering; also from Sciatica, (stabbing pain in hip and thigh), Neuritis, Neuralgia and Lumbago (Lame Back). No harmful or habit-forming drugs.

T.R.-C's do this—Enter the blood stream and help your body throw off the misery-causing poisons which have accumulated in your blood. When these go, health and happiness return. T.R.-C's are 50c and $1 per box at your dealer's.

You owe it to yourself to try T.R.-C's TEMPLETON'S RHEUMATIC CAPSULES

YOUNG PEOPLE CONVENE HERE

Rev. Dr. W. M. Kennawin Addresses Youth Conference at St. Paul's

Over 200 members of Young Peoples' societies, Sunday school teachers, members of girls' auxiliaries and mission band leaders and others, from St. Andrew's, St. Paul's, Knox, the George, the Chinese Mission Church, Sooke and Esquimalt, met in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Victoria West, at the Young Peoples' Conference, convened to meet Rev. Dr. W. M. Kennawin, general secretary of Sunday school and Young Peoples' societies of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, Monday night.

The delegates were welcomed by Rev. G. F. Cox, the Presbyterian's youth convenor and pastor of St. Paul's. He also welcomed the three visiting ministers, Rev. H. P. S. Luttrell, Rev. J. S. Patterson and Rev. P. McNab, and read a letter of apology from Rev. S. Lundie of Sooke, expressing regret at being unable to be present on account of the illness of Mrs. Lundie.

Mr. Cox expressed the hope that the conference would tend to unify the separate classes and congregations of the church within the city into one as part of the larger church of Canada. He spoke appreciatively of the fine co-operation he had received from the Young Peoples' Association, composed of representatives from each of the societies in the city and from Miss Rita Rodger, president, who had worked hard and had drawn up the programme submitted during the evening.

The various items of the programme were contributed by the following members of Young Peoples' societies: Miss D. Humphries, prayer; Miss Rebecca Leung, scripture reading; Miss Silvia Cross of Knox Church, soloist; St. Paul's Y.P.S.C.E. rendered a chorus of their own composition, "The Church on the Hill-top" and a Young Peoples' hymn; A. Trevitt, St. Andrew's, sang "God Bless the Morning." There was also community hymn-singing.

The accompanists were P. Arnot, leader of St. Paul's Y.P.S.C.E., and Jesse Longfield, organist of St. Andrew's.

Dr. Kennawin complimented the local committee on its excellent arrangements. He spoke of the world-wide distribution of the Presbyterian Church, claiming that it was the largest Protestant denomination in the world, with congregations in many lands. The reason for its wide spread, he said, was that it had always had for its motto, "The World for Christ."

He referred to Sunday school work and traced the growth of the Sunday school movement, from the days of its inaugurator, Robert Raikes of Gloucester, and his schools for poor waifs 153 years ago. Robert Raikes little dreamed of the mighty movement that was to spread all over the civilized world until to-day its scholars are numbered in the millions, the speaker said. He urged young people to follow Christ in being useful in their church.

Questions relative to increased efficiency in the Sabbath school and Young Peoples' societies were asked of Dr. Kennawin. In his answers he stressed the need in Y.P.S. work of putting religion first. Young people could never compete with the world in the matter of amusements, he said. Their success would depend on making religion their main study. He urged a larger place for the Bible in Sunday schools and Y.P. societies and the devotion of five minutes each meeting night for mission study.

Mr. Warren thanked Dr. Kennawin for his inspiring and stimulating address. Rev. Mr. Luttrell and Rev. Mr. Patterson also spoke.

The proceedings closed with the benediction, and supper was served by the ladies.

There were more than six candidates in the house.

W. B. Caird dealt with tariffs and the economic system in general. Nations were building higher and higher tariff walls. At the same time they all wanted foreign markets. All were willing to sell but none wanted to buy. He predicted failure for President Roosevelt's NRA plan and for Premier Pattullo's recovery plan, because the present economic system would not permit it.

Rev. Robert Connell said there would be no breaking up of the family system under C.C.F. government, but rather an improvement. The C.C.F. aim was not regimentation but the fostering of individuality and the progress of art through giving security to working people.

Mr. Guy Sheppard presided.

COLD WEATHER NECESSITATES DIET ADJUSTMENT

The advent of cold weather inspires many unhappy skin conditions, definitely related to diet, temperature, or clothing. If the mother is aware of them, she can arm herself to deal intelligently with them.

Some children are sensitive to fats, with which the diet is apt to be overloaded in cold weather. Rich milks, large doses of cod liver oil, bacon or other meat fats, butter and salad oils are all possible contributors to an overly rich diet of fats. The child who has a wide tolerance for fats may not be disturbed by them. The child who exhibits a rough, blotched skin, and has an unusual number of blackheads or a series of boils may be indicating his inability to cope with this digestive burden.

When these facial eruptions appear, cut down on the amount of butter, cream, and cod liver oil and notice if there is a cessation of the symptoms. Often a complete removal of fats from the diet for a few days will help. Return to them very gradually and cautiously. Such fats as butter and cream and cod liver oil are invaluable in the diet, and for that very reason should not be over-represented so as to cripple the child's ability to tolerate them.

Wool is a common skin irritant in winter weather. The child who breaks out in areas touched by wool may have sensitivity to this element. He would be more comfortable and less irritated in all-cotton clothing.

WORK OF THE WIND

Not only woolen garments but cold winds work a real hardship on the child with a delicate skin. The change from a warm room to a rough, cold wind is quite enough to irritate the soft skins of their velvety smoothness, and render them rough and burning red.

There is another type of rough, dry skin often suffered by children in cold weather that is described by their mother as "poorly pimply." This may be the result of harsh soaps, cold water, cold winds, and wool clothing, or in many cases may indicate a real diet deficiency. The child deprived of sufficient vitamin B may suffer this chronically rough, dry skin. More vegetables, fruits, whole grain cereals, whole wheat, whole oatmeal, and whole barley in the diet should quickly make up this deficiency.

We shall be glad to send any reader of this department our leaflets on feeding if she will send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper. Mention the age of your child, and the proper leaflet may be returned to you.

Widowed Bride Committed Suicide From Plane At Sea

Associated Press
Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 22.—Restless waters of the old Atlantic to-day apparently formed a grave for Mrs. Louise Turk Stanton, recent widow, daughter of a prominent family and thirty-year-old junior league leader, who borrowed a plane and flew seaward to meet death wherever the craft's fuel ran out.

In notes left behind she asked it should not be called suicide—for "I particularly dislike the word suicide"—and explained she just wanted to get "out into space and find out what it is all about and if there isn't anything—that's O.K., too."

Friends said they believed Mrs. Stanton was grief-stricken over the death of her husband, Gordon M. Stanton, killed in an automobile accident less than two weeks ago. They had been married less than a year.

The finding of the notes—more than four hours after Mrs. Stanton had sent her plane into the air—sent three pilots manning their planes over the ocean, but Bert Maloney, manager of the airport, said this was "really a gesture," and explained her long start had made the chances of finding either the woman or traces of the plane almost negligible if she had flown until gas shortage dropped her into the water.

Before she left the field on her flight to an unknown destination, Mrs. Stanton, by letter, arranged for the replacement of the plane she borrowed.

RICHEST GIRL
COMES OF AGE

Doris Duke Gets First $10,000,000; But Not a Happy One

Canadian Press
New York, Nov. 22.—Slender, fair-haired Doris Duke yesterday became the world's richest girl. She reached the age of twenty-one at midnight and at once became the legal owner of some $10,000,000, one-third of the legacy she will ultimately receive from her father's estate. She gets another $10,000,000 at twenty-five, and the third at thirty.

Sometimes she wishes she could go into shops and buy things like other girls. But she cannot. A flock of detectives and chaperones accompany her wherever she goes because of reported kidnap threats. Her father, James Buchanan Duke, made a fortune in North Carolina and pushed it up to $103,000,000 in the world's money markets before he died in 1925.

There is a tendency to-day to make education for women too feminine," says Virginia C. Gildersleeve, herself a prominent educator. She is Dean of Barnard College, Columbia University.

"Practically all the subjects in the college curriculum to-day seem to me as 'women as to men,' she declares.

"Certainly they are as essential to the one charged with creating a home and rearing children as they are to the husband pursuing a business career.

"To think straight, to have a fair knowledge of the nature and the works of men, to know how to find out about a new subject, to be acquainted with some of the joys of the fine arts—these are as useful in a home as outside.

"We apparently face again an old peril which we thought was conquered years ago—the idea that all women should be educated as women only, and not as human beings entitled to their full share of the intellectual heritage of the race.

"From many directions during the last two or three years we have heard recrudescence of the ancient assertion that women need only a diluted sort of higher education, reduced and adapted to their peculiar needs—generally by some man, according to his judgment of what they ought to want!"

Tuesday, November 21.

Lie awake some time musing on the best way to approach Samuel on the subject of my Yuletide money—but up and continue with my thoughts to the breakfast table. Samuel did seem in a very good humor and I got to speak. He had been negotiating here for the purchase of gold mining property. He built the first gold reduction plant at Butte, Mont., and built and operated a smelter in Alaska.

as my Yuletide money is forthcoming. These perfume bottles do, methinks, make perfect gifts and all so reasonable—as low as $1.00 and not one over $2.50.

Come forthwith to the street again and find the sun be shining. Everything is bright and the shoppes look all the more enticing. 'Tis long since the sun has shone for any length of time. Methinks if the weather would but clear Yuletide shopping would soon start in earnest.

Up View Street to A. K. Love's Limited. Mistress Castlemaine be anxious to look at the Oriental kimono I did see on Saturday. While she did make her choice I was much interested in seeing the many people that did come in and out this fine shoppes. The Anniversary Sale be still on and things do be very cheap. Here be many gift suggestions. A. K. Love's be a veritable treasure house for the astute shopper.

Mistress Castlemaine did choose a bright Oriental silk in deep flaming red. 'Tis covered with bright floral design. She be much surprised at its modest price.

Thence to Yates Street to Foster's Furriers. Mistress Castlemaine be always interested in good fur and as for myself, do still ponder overmuch on the fact that I need a new evening coat. If I can but get Samuel to consider buying it will be to Foster's I coax him. Mr. Alexander, after a lifetime spent in the fur trade, doth know fur so well, his experienced advice be indeed a pleasure to listen to. Then, too, there be Foster's iron-clad guarantee on every piece of fur that do leave the store. 'Tis indeed a most reliable shoppes to buy good furs.

Home!—to find Samuel in particular, good humor. Purchase 'twas in part the sun which shone so brightly this morn. What matter the influence. Faith! the result is the things. After some agreeable talk Samuel did present me with my December allowance. 'Tis a whole week early and when I did take a peek at the money, he did place in my hand find he had doubled my usual bit. Lai. Men do be strange creatures. I did worry this two days as to the best way to approach this vexing subject. Faith! the sun doth shine for half a day and all my worries be over.

Think seriously of my shopping in the morn. Plan with care for a long day in town. Lai there be so many fine things to buy 'tis doubtful if the day will be long enough.

Forthwith turn our steps toward Little & Taylor's Jewellery Shoppe for there be the most distinguished gifts can always pick up distinctive little things that please the most fastidious. Lai These perfume bottles do be very new. Crystal, in all colors, and cut in diverse shapes. Did look longingly at a tall oblong one with long, clear crystal stopper. Then there be a deep rose octagonal shape that did make me think of my favorite niece Rosemary's dressing table. Vow to return to Little & Taylor's again as soon

Man With a Thousand Masks

By Augustus Muir

"What do you know about Mr. Brown?"

"Precious little," muttered Alan, avoiding her eyes, which seemed to be full of mingled fear and suspicion.

"You're keeping something from me," she cried.

"I know nothing—nothing definite," returned Alan. "That's just the trouble. There's something wrong, and I want to put it right for you. Can't you understand? Since this burglar here last Monday night you've obviously been in a difficult position."

"Has Inspector Tripp told you that?" she flashed back.

"It was on the tip of his tongue to reply that he hadn't discussed the matter with Inspector Tripp, but he realized that this would be a false-hood. He had discussed it more than once. And each time he had found himself under the necessity of defending her."

"She stood with averted eyes, then turned to him suddenly."

"When did you see Inspector Tripp last?"

"Yesterday."

"Then you see a lot of him?"

Alan did not reply. He could see the quick, darting suspicion in her face, and he knew she was thinking of the letter he had taken to the Hearst's. He had mentioned this to Inspector Tripp? That was the question which was suddenly torturing her. He could see it plainly, and he could scarcely blame her for her doubts.

"Look here, Elizabeth," he said, frowning acutely miserable. "You know I want to help you. Why don't you believe me?"

"I do believe it," she said in a low voice. "But it's impossible. There's nothing you could do—nothing."

More than once in the last few minutes he had been tempted to tell her everything he knew. But he could not break faith with Tripp, even on the chance of her disclosing the full facts about her strange connection with Mr. Brown.

Suddenly, with dismay, he saw her drop into a chair, her face hidden in her hands. Alan stumbled to his feet and went over to her. He could hear her breath coming quickly in stammered sobs, and her distress cut him to the heart.

"He touched her gently on the shoulder."

"Don't you tell me what's wrong?" he asked.

She did not reply, and he was conscious of a wild impulse to gather her into his arms. She was like a helpless child, at the mercy of secret forces that were far stronger than she was. With an effort she had controlled herself, but her bowed head was still between her hands. As he looked down at her slender figure, with the dark, burnished hair against the milky pallor of her skin, he knew that there was nothing in the world he would not do to save her even one moment's distress.

"Are you listening, Elizabeth? I want to tell you something. Something about myself that I've known from the first hour I saw you. Will it spoil our friendship—apoll: everything?"

"I tell you that I care for you—care for you more than—"

"For an instant her brown eyes opened wide, and then she shrank back."

"Why did you say that?" she cried, and there was actual pain in her voice.

"It's the truth, he replied gently. "The truth, Elizabeth."

"If you knew the truth about me—"

"She began, but broke off with a gesture of helplessness. "It's impossible! Don't speak of it again. Promise me that you won't!" Her intensity startled him. He shook his head.

"I'm completely in the dark, Elizabeth," he said quietly. "Until you tell me everything."

"As if I wouldn't tell you if I could!" she rose to her feet, one more and faced him. "I know what your life has been, Mr. Gilmour. You've been good enough to tell me a lot about yourself. You've worked hard, I know—desperately hard. But has your whole life been torn with anxiety as mine has been? Why, I doubt if you know the meaning of the word! I've been grateful for your friendship these last few days—it has helped me. But it must come to an end now."

"Come to an end?" he repeated blankly.

"She inclined her head."

"I don't want you to see me again," she said in a low, deliberate voice.

"Dumbfounded, Alan could only stare at her."

"You—you want me to clear out—for good?" he said at last.

"For good," she replied slowly.

An idea struck him, and he seized upon it eagerly.

"Are you saying this because Sir Richard Templeton doesn't approve?"

"My decision has nothing to do with Sir Richard," was her reply. "I was going to write to you to-night, but I'm glad I've seen you instead. Now there can be no misunderstanding."

"Can't we talk this over?" he asked.

"Can't I see you to-morrow—or some time during the week-end?"

"She shook her head."

"I shall be going out of town this afternoon. I won't be back here until one day next week. By that time let's hope you'll have forgotten all about me."

"Next week? I must see you before that," he insisted. "What will your address be?"

"That I cannot give you." Her refusal was decisive, and in the silence that followed he felt a chill creeping over him.

"Perhaps I'd better go," he said miserably.

She held out her hand.

"Goodbye, Mr. Gilmour."

She withdrew her cold fingers from his clasp, and he turned to the door. When he glanced back she was standing by the window, her face averted, and he closed the door behind him. It was not the ending he had expected; even in his most pessimistic moments he had not dreamed that his hopes would culminate like this. He dragged himself upstairs to his room and dropped into an armchair by the window.

Had she sent him away, he wondered, because he had confessed his love for her? No; he must search elsewhere for the reason. Nor was Sir Richard Templeton the cause. Something must have happened since he had seen her last. It was almost as if the had received a warning, a threat, to cut short their acquaintance!

The rest of the day he spent in gloomy thought, and took a long, tireless walk through London's streets in the evening, returning to bed exhausted. But after breakfast next morning he received a piece of information that he seized upon eagerly.

In the course of a talk with the floor-waiter who attended to him he had occasion to mention Sir Richard Templeton's name, and the man remarked that the barrister had gone off to the country for the week-end, taking his secretary with him.

"Does he live far from London?"

Alan asked, concealing his excitement.

"Surely, sir," replied the man. "Holme-dean House belongs to Sir Richard."

It took Alan all forenoon to make up his mind; but once it was made up he was not slow to act upon the decision. After luncheon he hurried to his room and packed a suitcase, and by 4.30 was in a motor-going "train."

After a short wait at a junction he got into a "local" which set him down at Holme-dean a few minutes after 4 o'clock.

Before leaving London he had made a few brief inquiries about accommodation, and pitching his suitcase into a decrepit faxcab, which was meeting him, he took the driver to take him to the Swan Inn.

He did not hope to see Elizabeth that evening, but he was determined that he would devise some means of getting in touch with her before the week-end was over. He blamed himself and himself alone that their talk the day before had been so unsatisfactory. Elizabeth was in trouble, even greater trouble than he had previously expected, and his mind was firmly fixed upon that things must be allowed to drift no longer. Apart from himself, to whom could she turn for help?

The landlord's wife, a cheerful, talkative person, engaged him in conversation, and he took the opportunity of asking her in which direction Holme-dean House lay.

"To Sir Richard Templeton's place, sir," she replied, pointing towards the trees. "Wonderful old it is. He stays there a lot, sir, does Sir Richard. You don't know him, by chance, sir?"

"I've met him once," nodded Alan, and smiled to himself. If he had explained the nature of the talk he had had with Sir Richard Templeton, in that terse and heated interview, the landlord's wife might not have received his casual remark so complacently.

"Then you'll be calling on him, sir?" she inquired.

"I think not," replied Alan. "I suppose he's at home just now?"

Uncle Wiggily and Pumpkin Pete

(By HOWARD R. GARIS.)

Uncle Wiggily was feeling so fine and dandy and spry after the warm wind, when Jack Frost hid in the cave of Mr. Whiffles, that the rabbit-gentleman jumped all the way down stairs in his little stump bungalow one morning. Generally he either hopped down one step at a time or he slid down the banister railing.

"But this time I'm going to jump all the way!" he said. And he did, landing right in front of Nurse Jane, who was hurrying toward the kitchen.

Mr. Longears thought the muskrat lady housekeeper would scream and say something to him. But, instead, she just swept right along, holding her long tail over one paw so it wouldn't drag on the floor.

"Aren't you surprised?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Not at all," said Nurse Jane. "Please don't get in my way, Mr. Longears. I am very busy."

"Dear me," murmured Mr. Longears. "I wonder what can be going on in my bungalow that I can't surprise Nurse Jane by jumping down stairs?"

"I must go and see my wife about it. Where is Mrs. Longears?" he asked.

"Out in the kitchen where I am going," answered Miss Fussy Wuzzy. "But she is also busy. Better not bother her."

"My! This certainly is a busy place!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily as Nurse Jane skipped down the hall. "I'll go see what it's all about."

SUPPORTS PLAN FOR INSURANCE

Contributory Measure for Unemployed Favored by Herbert Anson

Independent Candidate Continues Election Campaign at Oaklands School

Creation of a contributory unemployment insurance fund, which should be worked out carefully and then left undisturbed for a period of time until it is in such a sound condition as to remove all doubt as to the permanency of its solvency, was advocated by Herbert Anson, independent candidate in Victoria riding in next Monday's election, who yesterday evening addressed an enthusiastic meeting of the electors in Oaklands School. R. H. Oliver was the chairman.

Mr. Anson was wholeheartedly in favor of a scheme of insurance for unemployed on a contributory basis, but emphasized that it was strictly a federal matter and would operate far more successfully under Dominion control. If, however, it was impossible to get federal support, then he was in favor of at least starting something provincially.

Whether the Liberal policy of Work and Wages was carried out or not, the candidate felt some sort of unemployment insurance should be introduced.

FEDERAL CONTROL DESIRED

"When this is undertaken there are two points which must have first consideration, federal control and contributory basis," Mr. Anson said. With reference to federal control, he said that the provincial government as nothing whatever to do with the making of federal legislation, but it must be very apparent that it would be more satisfactory to have legislation of this nature enacted by the federal authorities than by the province.

"The point arises that if the province undertakes the problem, how will it control the transient worker? how will he ever be made to subscribe? how will the province collect from him?" he asked.

It was obvious that this would be difficult, for in a young country like Canada the transient worker was quite a factor in everyday life, he continued. Mr. Anson offered support to any provincial legislation with his end in view, but added there must be provision that the transient worker could not come into the province and receive from the fund which had been provided by the people of the province and secure its benefits without having been insured.

Mr. Anson also dealt with state health insurance. Owing to the questioning of whether or not the meal tax was to be successful, he announced he would vote for its repeal at the first session of the House. He did not oppose this policy because he did not think the hospitals needed the money, but he thought there was a better method of dealing with this matter.

BOVINE WARD SERVICE

He advocated a system of hospital insurance, the cost of which must be met by the cost of ward service must be provided for and if the patient desired to go into a room rather than a ward, he could do so by paying the difference himself. He pointed out that last year the Jubilee Hospital cost the city of Victoria $108,000, an amount equal to $1.10 a day for each patient, and this was a heavy load on the city's budget.

"In dealing with this problem we are exactly the same situation as that of unemployment insurance; that it should be a federal matter due to the floating population," he said, adding but, if it is not possible to secure federal legislation, then we must start at the province.

"After all," he said, "the average man has little illness that requires hospital treatment so that the cost cannot easily be considered high when the main points are considered: first, capital should be put on a sound financial basis and civil taxation reduced; and second, the insured must be able to pay for his treatment without the hospital without a worry of any kind regarding hospital charges."

Mr. Anson expounded at length his views on financial policies. He was absolutely opposed to further borrowings and favored the issuing of bonds as adopted in England and the refunding of loans on this basis, as they fell due, he pointed out, would be unable to utilize federal credit as proposed by the new ministry and this plan of refunding part of the present debt and then establishing the remainder to pay a low rate of interest on it, he thought would meet the situation.

TO MEN OF FORTY

Who are Putting on Fat and Pretend They do not Care

Amongst middle-aged men, an increasing "corporation" is outwardly the subject for lighthearted humor. But, at forty, a man is physician enough to know that excess fat is incompatible with perfect health; he is probably also aware that insurance companies often reject the applications of overweight men and women. It is a disconcerting thought, but statistics evidently show that excess fat is apt to shorten life.

No Drastic Dieting

Very wisely, he decides to read Nature's warning and to avoid those foods which fatten. The test of will comes later when he finds himself constrained to a somewhat monotonous diet. Being only human, he starts to show himself a little lighthearted. . . . And at this point he must offer Nature some little compensation. If he calls to the aid of Kruschen Salts, he will be granted very considerable latitude in his diet regime. Nature will intertain little more than the pious hope that he will limit his consumption of fatty meats, potatoes, white bread and pastries. . . . Cruschen is a scientific blend of six mineral salts found in the waters of those European spas which have been used by generations of over stout people to reduce weight. Kruschen combats the cause of fat by assisting the internal organs to perform their functions properly—to throw off each day those waste products and poisons which, if allowed to accumulate, will be converted by the body's chemistry into extra fat. Unlike ordinary laxatives, Kruschen does not restrict its action to a single part of the system. Its tonic effect extends to every organ, gland, nerve, and vein. It builds up new energy and strength all the while the user is training himself down to normal weight.

When Fat Starts to Go

After about a fortnight, the fat starts to go. Then, month after month, the scales tell the same story—a few less pounds of superfluous flesh to burden the body and endanger the health. But, no matter how consistent this reducing effect of Kruschen Salts cannot proceed to a degree harmful to the body's well-being. The prescribed dose of Kruschen Salts for fat reduction is half a teaspoonful in a glass of hot water every morning. Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c. and 75c. per bottle.

Bridge Deal Calls For $1,000,000 Road

This Will Loom Largely in Consideration, Says Minister
Crescent Beach and Ladner Deals Are Now Being Reviewed

Expenditure of approximately $1,000,000 which the British Columbia government would be called upon to make for the construction of a hard surface, standard road from Blaine to the Ladner Bridge will be an important factor for consideration when the Ladner Bridge comes under review by the cabinet, Hon. F. M. MacPherson, Minister of Public Works, announced yesterday.

The bridge and the Crescent Beach land sale are two transactions completed in the dying hours of the last government which Premier Pattullo said would not be considered binding by the present administration if they were against the public interest. Ministers are preparing information on both deals to place before the cabinet. Referring to the bridge, Mr. MacPherson said the clause calling for the road would proceed or not. That would be for the cabinet to decide. In reviewing the agreement, which was under fire in the Legislature, Mr. MacPherson said the clause calling for the road was an important feature. Besides building the road the government would have to purchase the right of way at various places and it might be found that the estimated $1,000,000 would not cover the cost. Also to be considered was the fact that there was already a road from Blaine to Vancouver and there appeared too great a need for other roads in the province to build another, dividing traffic routed the same way.

FOR FORTY YEARS

Under the agreement regarding the erection of the bridge which it is estimated will cost $2,000,000, the government is called upon to pay up to an amount of $140,000 for forty years in case the amount of money collected from tolls is insufficient to meet the costs. The amount of $140,000 is based on a dollar for dollar contribution towards deficits, with a limit set of the amount the government should contribute.

While in New Westminster Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands, heard strong representations against the construction of the bridge from the bridge committee of the New Westminster Board of Trade.

BEACH SALE

The Crescent Beach land sale will also come before the cabinet shortly. The Surrey municipality has forwarded to Mr. Gray a protest against alienation of the shore and has filed a formal renewal of an application it made in 1928 for a grant of the tract to the municipality for public purposes. The Crescent Beach Development Co. has forwarded a letter of protest against the certificate of purchase by Joseph Hinchliffe as Minister of Lands in the last stages of the transaction. W. C. Shelly, president of the company, has intimated the company would have little use for the land under the altered conditions.

The correspondence received by the minister on the subject shows a conflict of views between Surrey Municipality and the company, the municipality fearing it is the company's desire to prevent the public from holding picnics or children from playing on the beach. The municipality is agreeable to the company being allowed easements to permit the erection of protective works by way of groins or sea walls and believes that permission should be ample. On the other hand the company, seeking more beach acreage, is protesting against the clause permitting the erection only of bathing boxes on the beach, claiming this would prevent the erection of a boat-house, yacht club or pier.

HALIBUT INQUIRY TO OPEN MONDAY

W. A. Found, deputy minister of fisheries for the Dominion Government, will arrive in Victoria from Ottawa on Monday to open here the hearing on the halibut fishing season question. Local halibut fishers have been protesting against the Canadian regulations put into effect this year, closing the season in August instead of November. In their protest to the provincial government, they claimed that the short season would mean much suffering to the local fishermen and their families during the winter, as during the summer open season they had not been able to earn enough money to see them through. It was explained to them the government closed the season early in order to protect the market from being overloaded by a surplus catch. P. J. Bennett has been chosen by the local fishing interests to present the case of the men at next Monday's inquiry.

PEACE IS THEME OF DISCUSSION

Liberal and Labor Amendments to Throne Speech in British Commons

London, Nov. 22.—With the debate just started in the Commons, the Liberal and Labor Oppositions yesterday afternoon and evening submitted amendments to the Address in Reply to the Speech from the Throne.

The Labor amendment expresses regret at the "misleading of international and Imperial affairs, and failure to reverse the unjust economies enforced on the unemployed, or to restore and develop social services."

The Liberal amendment regrets the Throne Speech did not indicate any effective policy to restore world trade or develop the resources and equipment of the nation.

The Liberals, under Sir Herbert Samuel, were ironically cheered as they formally crossed the floor to the Opposition benches, abandoning their previous neutrality largely because of dissatisfaction with the government's record in disarmament efforts.

As the House began debate on the Address in Reply to the Speech from the Throne, Premier MacDonald amplified the declarations contained in the Speech. In general remarks, Rt. Hon. George Lansbury, veteran Labor leader, complained no mention had been made in the Speech of the trade negotiations with Russia, and he asserted the failure of the World Economic Conference was almost a crime.

WAR ECHOES

The Prime Minister described the European situation today as a continuation of the aftermath of war and the peace treaties.

"So far as we are concerned," he said in reference to disarmament, "we were never under the delusion an agreement on disarmament which is not a full agreement internationally, would be of much use in establishing peace on a secure basis."

"Sir John Simon (Foreign Minister), returning to-day (from Geneva), is able to report there is a determined spirit of co-operation at Geneva, and no intention of allowing disarmament to die or fail."

The Prime Minister said Sir John had gone to Geneva as a representative of the entire cabinet. "We are entitled to claim British help is doing much to bring about the united effort necessary to ultimate success," he added.

"We hope Germany may join these diplomatic exchanges, and France and Italy will continue their efforts. Of course, we will continue to act in close touch with the United States."

DENIES OTTAWA MARCH SCHEME

Canadian Press
Regina, Nov. 22.—Launching a campaign for the unification of returned soldiers' organizations, and to gain financial support for a national convention, Brig-General Alex C.M.G., D.S.O., vice-president of the Dominion Command and Saskatchewan president of the Canadian Legion, addressed a mass meeting of ex-service men yesterday evening.

He stated clearly there was no move on foot to organize a march on Ottawa, but rather that there should be a national-wide convention for the purpose of outlining future policies of the organization in relation to pensions, service preferences and unemployment.

The meeting was representative not only of members of the Legion but of other ex-service men's organizations and unaffiliated veterans.

FARM MACHINERY SAVINGS URGED

Canadian Press
Toronto, Nov. 22.—Money annually "wasted" by unwise and useless purchase of farm machinery on the prairies was one of the matters considered at yesterday's session of the associated committee on agriculture of the National Research Council, meeting here under the chairmanship of Dr. H. M. Tory.

The question was introduced by Dean E. A. Howes of the University of Alberta faculty of agriculture. He declared a great deal of money could be saved each year if the matter was thoroughly investigated by the committee and the farmers educated to more judicious use of their money.

Main purpose of the research, conducted by representatives of fifteen agricultural colleges in the U.S., was agricultural situation in Canada as a whole, with the idea of bringing about a general reduction in production costs and improvement in quality of farm products.

MOB SENTIMENT PLEA OVERRULED

Decatur, Ala., Nov. 22.—The seven negroes in the Scottsboro, Alabama, attack case lost their fight for retrial in another city when Judge W. W. Callahan yesterday overruled a motion for a change of venue.

The defence had asked transfer of the trials to Birmingham, charging "mob sentiment" existed here and made a fair trial impossible.

There is no evidence before me to indicate the defendants cannot get a fair trial here," said Judge Callahan at the conclusion of testimony.

The ruling left only two motions for disposition prior to the scheduled trial of one of the seven defendants, Heywood Patterson, next Monday. One was to quash the venire and the other to quash the indictments.

THISTLES PRACTICE

A practice of the Sanich Thistles first division football team will be held to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock at the Athletic Park. All players are asked to attend.

SCORES KNOCKOUT

Dallas, Texas, Nov. 2.—Tracy Cox, 141½, junior welterweight from Indianapolis, belted Roy Calamari, 138, New Orleans, with a knockout in the second stanza of their scheduled ten-round fight here yesterday evening.

New N.Y. Mayor Cuts Out Swank

New York, Nov. 21.—People who remember the urbane Jimmy Walker's residence at the Ritz get quite a shock when they go to visit Mayor-elect La Guardia and his wife up at their modest apartment at One Hundredth and Ninth Street. The furnishings are comfortable, but old-fashioned, and it's Fiorello himself who bustles around with the tea and sandwiches. He says it's a good enough establishment and that he does not intend to move.

Meanwhile, Joseph McKee, who also ran, is by way of becoming New York's forgotten man. He attended the horse show the other night, sat in a front box, and was not even recognized by one in a hundred of the customers.

NEW ECONOMIC PRETZEL NOW

Studied Along With 783 Other Commodities to Set Value of U.S. Dollar

Associated Press
Washington, Nov. 22.—Pretzels, castor oil, ground bone, caskets and snuff are some of the articles whose prices may be used as an index to determine the varying gold value of the "commodity dollar" if such a currency unit is adopted in the United States.

They are among the 784 articles studied by the Labor Department in fixing the index number of wholesale commodity prices whose fluctuations, some economists urge, should govern the dollar's metal base.

If prices should rise, as shown by the index, the gold or other metallic backing of the dollar would be reduced. If they should fall it would be increased. Theoretically, the dollar's purchasing power in terms of commodities would remain constant under the scheme.

Each item included in the calculation is weighted according to its importance in the market.

"What's North of 53" By Caribou Bill

Shown By 400 Wonderful Pictures

and 300 Minerals from the North

On Display Second Floor

Thursday, Friday Saturday

ADMISSION FREE!

Here on display you will see pictures of that vast, romantic, adventurous Northland, taken first-hand by the venturesome nomad, Caribou Bill (W. A. Anger).

With Caribou Bill are Horace Burgoyne, miner and prospector, and Rodger Penton, all of whom have done their pioneering part in the opening of the rich north-land.

Caribou Bill spent years in exploring the far reaches of The Pas country, to Churchill, thence across the barren lands to Chesterfield Inlet. From the pictures displayed may be gleaned some idea of the vast, undeveloped natural resources, the unsurpassed fishing, big game hunting and the exquisite scenery of that little-known region of Canada.

The Log Cabin in which Caribou Bill and his party are touring the world. The cabin is open to inspection and may be seen outside the store.

TARIFF CHANGES FOR NEWFOUNDLAND ARE RECOMMENDED

Commission Which Investigated the Administrative Affairs of Island Also Proposes Fisheries Industry Be Reorganized

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—In addition to proposing a commission of six to replace the Legislative and Government of Newfoundland, the Royal Commission which investigated the finances of the island and drafted a report which was made public yesterday, offers a number of subsidiary recommendations which may be summarized as follows:

Immediate readjustment of the tariff, which is considered unscientific, excessively complicated, and pressing too heavily on the poorer classes.

Adjustments in the salaries of judges, civil servants and government employees, whose salaries have been severely reduced in the effort to reduce expenditures.

Restoration in part, at least, of the cuts made in war pensions.

CIVIL SERVICE

Reorganization of the civil service along the lines of that of the United Kingdom, removing "political and denominational handicaps."

Increase in government grants for educational services as soon as finances permit.

Establishment of liaison with the (Canadian) Dominion Bureau of Statistics as an aid in collecting accurate information relating to every branch of the island's life.

Special attention to the breeding of fur-bearing animals and organization of a game warden body along the lines of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police to assist in this development.

Reorganization of the Fisheries Department, appointment of marketing experts in southern Europe and South America, establishment of fish auctions at the chief centres, and the formation of fishermen's co-operative societies with the gradual elimination of the present credit system under which merchants outfit fishermen and receive in return the whole or part of the season's catch.

It is recommended that, beginning in 1934, no merchant shall purchase fish from a fisherman without a minimum cash payment of 20 per cent of its value.

FUNDS ADVANCED

The commission was created by royal warrant February 17 last, on joint advice of the governments of the United Kingdom, Canada and Newfoundland, after the two former governments had come to the assistance of the island with a joint advance of $1,250,000 to meet the interest on the public debt, due January 1 last. The United Kingdom government made a subsequent advance of $1,850,000 to meet interest payments due July 1. With a budget unbalanced since 1920, and average annual deficits of $2,000,000 for the twelve years ended with 1932, the commission was set up when conditions were rapidly growing worse in spite of greatly reduced expenditures.

DEBT $400 PER HEAD

The public debt of Newfoundland stands at $101,000,000, compared with $43,000,000 at the close of the Great War period. The per capita debt is $400 in a country with a population having a comparatively low earning power.

For the current year the revenue has been estimated at $3,084,000, about $850,000 more than last year, and expenditures estimated at $11,065,000, some $500,000 less than last year. This provides for a deficit of about $2,131,000, a decrease of $1,120,000 compared with 1932-33.

In view of continued economic depression in the island and the fact that the commission believed the deficit would be greater than estimated. Even under normal conditions, the report declared, there would be no apparent prospect of the island being able to show a balanced budget.

Under the present system of government Newfoundland has a governor appointed by the crown, a legislature of two houses, the Council appointed by the government and the Assembly responsible to the people. The administration of the island is by a cabinet, the whole based on the system of the United Kingdom and Canada.

Until such time as the island is self-supporting, and a demand is voted by the people, the commission proposed suspension of all parts of this parliamentary machine except the office of governor, and substitution of a commission of six.

The commission would be composed of three to be named by the United Kingdom government and three drawn from Newfoundland, and would be vested with full legislative and executive authority. It would be responsible to the Governor and he would be responsible to the government of the United Kingdom for the good government of the island.

IN THREE CAPITALS

The report and recommendations of the royal commission were made public simultaneously yesterday in Ottawa, St. John's and London.

The commission was composed of Baron Amulree, chairman and United Kingdom representative; C. A. Magrath, Canadian representative; and Sir William Staveley, representing Newfoundland.

WOULD ABOLISH U.S. CONGRESS

Associated Press

Blytheville, Ark., Nov. 22.—Clinton Caldwell, retired lawyer and planter, wants to go to the United States Congress to see how it works and to abolish it.

He announced yesterday he would be a candidate for the Democratic nomination from the first district in the August, 1934, primary, and that his one plank is an amendment to the constitution abolishing Congress and giving its powers to the President.

Under his plans, the President would be subject to "suspension" by a vote of a majority of the forty-eight state governors, who would then call a special election to pick a successor.

Given under the purpose of the election, M. F. Hunter, Returning Officer.

Public Notice is hereby given to the Electors of the Municipality of Esquimalt that I require the presence of the said Electors in the Council Chamber at the City Hall, Douglas Street, in the said city, on THURSDAY, the SEVENTH day of DECEMBER, 1933, at TWELVE o'clock noon, for the purpose of electing persons to represent them as MAYOR, ALDERMEN (five (5) to be elected), and SCHOOL TRUSTEES (four (4) to be elected).

The mode of Nomination of Candidates shall be as follows:

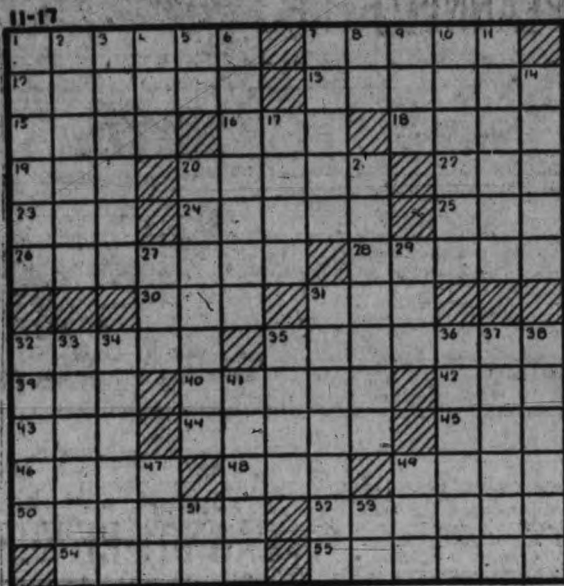

The Candidates shall be nominated in writing; the writing shall be subscribed by two electors of the Municipality as Proprietors or Secondaries, and shall be delivered to the Returning Officer at any time between the date of the notice and two o'clock p.m. on the day of nomination; the said writing may be in the form numbered 3 in the Municipal Elections Act, and shall state the names, residence and occupation or description of each person proposed, and shall also state the name of the person who shall be the candidate; and in the event of a poll being necessary, such poll shall be opened on THURSDAY, FOURTH day of DECEMBER, 1933, at the building known as the Victoria Public Market Building, Corner of Douglas Street, in the City of Victoria aforesaid, between the hours of NINE o'clock a.m. and SEVEN o'clock p.m. Of all of which every person is hereby required to take notice and to govern himself accordingly.

Given under my hand at Victoria, British Columbia, this 22nd day of November, 1933.

No Propaganda, Says New Russian Agent

Soviet Officials in U.S. Will Avoid Such Activities, Declares A. A. Trovanovsky, Just Named Russian Ambassador at Washington

By Stanley P. Richardson, Associated Press Correspondent

Moscow, Nov. 22.—Alexander Antonovitch Trovanovsky, first Russian ambassador to the United States in sixteen years, gives assurances no Soviet official in America will engage in Communist propaganda.

"Communism is not a thing that can be exported to one country by another," he said yesterday at a press conference, apparently amused by the question he was answering.

"It is not a question of foreign relationship, but a domestic problem. In any event, I can assure you gentlemen there will be no Communist activity in the part of any of our officials in America."

Before leaving for Washington, Mr. Trovanovsky said he would remain in Moscow to confer with Maxim Litvinov, Commissar for Foreign Affairs, who is still in the United States capital.

"My job will be to continue the work begun by Litvinov," he said.

Mr. Litvinov explained in English, which he used throughout the interview.

"I will try to promote mutual understanding and friendship and to develop economic and cultural relations between the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the United States of America."

TRADE PLANS

"Naturally the question of trade is one of the most important before us, and I hope our economic contact with America now will be much larger than ever before."

While he talked to United States newsmen, he sat beneath a full length portrait of Joseph Stalin, secretary-general of the Communist Party, and a large map intersected with the red and blue lines that chart plans for foreign trade and transport under the Second Five-year Plan.

These two subjects have been his foremost responsibilities in his post as vice-chairman of the Planning Commission.

About Far Eastern problems he pressed to be optimistic. His declaration that recognition of the Soviet by the United States was a good augury for the stabilization of world peace, carried the weight of his observations during five years as ambassador at Tokyo.

INTERESTING PERSONALITY

The new ambassador has an engaging personality. His general manner of quiet dignity often is broken by a full smile.

He is a slender, well-built man, average height, with a suggestion of Oriental appearance given by his swarthy complexion. By contrast to his small and closely slitted mouth, his eyebrows are bushy and black. His black hair is thinning and grey at the temples.

Trovanovsky confessed a weakness for contract bridge, chess and tennis. He has never tried to play golf, does not like poker and never smokes.

Whether his wife will accompany him to Washington, he has not processed whimsically not to know.

"You see," he explained, smiling, "she is torn between her husband and her son. My boy is fourteen years old, but he will not learn Russian; so the possibilities are that I may have to leave him in school for a while. He speaks and knows English better than Russian from the teaching in Tokyo schools."

RAYON PLANT PLANNED HERE

British Capital Considering $3,000,000 Project Says Dai Thomas

Engineers Sent Out to Investigate, He Announces, Favor Ogden Point

Erection of a $3,000,000 plant in Victoria in connection with the manufacture of rayon silk by British industrialists, is contemplated, according to Dai Thomas, Vancouver, former Welsh international football player, who is in the city to-day inspecting a prospective site.

Mr. Thomas, when seen at the Empress Hotel this morning, said he had inspected a site at Ogden Point which was considered suitable for such a plant. Victoria, he added, was favored by engineers which had been sent out to London to report on a plant on Vancouver Island for the manufacture of raw materials which would be forwarded to England to be manufactured into rayon. Rayon is one of the biggest industries in Great Britain.

Hemlock, spruce and larch are used in the manufacture of rayon, and it is proposed to base the plant on the West Coast to be pulped at the Victoria plant.

It can be produced here at half the market price at present paid for rayon materials. Mr. Thomas stated.

He added that he expected to leave shortly for London to take up with his principals plans for the building of a plant here.

VOCATIONAL PLAN MOOTED

Helpful Studies for Student's Career Aim of New Minister

No immediate action that will disturb the course of schools in British Columbia is being contemplated at the present time, but greater consideration will be paid in future to vocational guidance, Hon. George M. Weir, Minister of Education and Provincial Secretary, stated this morning.

Vocational guidance was being treated with great importance throughout the Dominion, Dr. Weir said, and British Columbia was already more advanced in this respect than some of the other provinces. It would be found, however, that further steps could be made in this province. The subject of school curricula was one of the most important subjects of the department, Dr. Weir stated.

Subjects were now being studied by some scholars which would prove of no help for the professions or trades they would eventually follow, and through vocational guidance their study time would be spent on subjects which would help equip them for future life.

A study of the whole educational system which would entail visiting all parts of the province would be necessary before any major changes were made, Dr. Weir stated. He recalled the Putnam-Weir of the British Columbia educational system which he had a share in compiling, and many of the recommendations in which he had adopted by the government. That report, however, he pointed out, was compiled ten years ago, and changes which had taken place since that time made it necessary to gather information as a basis of contemplated improvements in the schools system.

JOE NORTH WILL SPEAK TO-MORROW

Mr. North had hoped to speak last Sunday at the Horse Shoe Building but was informed he must hold the meeting on a week night. He found it impossible to finance the renting of the building, and switched to the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. North states he will have something interesting to say but does not know how long it will take him to tell.

CANNOT BE SUED AS OFFICIALS

Mr. Justice Robertson Rules Out Claim Against Former Minister and Deputy

Gives Lawyer Permission to Amend Action Against Them as Individuals

R. W. Bruhn, who was Provincial Minister of Public Works, and Patrick Philip, deputy minister, cannot be sued in their private capacity for damages on account of the death last January of James Anderson Gray, knocked down on Burnside Road by a motor car driven by a public works road foreman with faulty eyesight, Mr. Justice Robertson said in giving his judgment in the Supreme Court to-day.

Gertrude Dorothy Gray, as administrator of her husband's estate, through her counsel, C. H. O'Halloran, has been seeking damages from Mr. Bruhn and Mr. Philip for his death. Mr. O'Halloran brought action against them in their private, as distinct from their official, capacities. She alleged that Bruhn and Mr. Philip had been personally negligent in placing in charge of a motor car an employee with defective eyesight, and who, she asserted, should not be driving a motor at all.

Also linked up as defendants in the suit are the Corporation of Saanich and J. McNair Paterson, the road foreman who had been placed in charge of the motor.

"The conclusion I come to is that the present action was intended to be and is a claim against the defendants in their official capacity and not as individuals," Mr. Justice Robertson said.

"The claim can only be a claim against them in their private capacity, because they were not acting in their official capacity, of course, in this case."

In his judgment the justice supported the contention of R. A. Wootton, defense counsel for Mr. Bruhn and Mr. Philip.

The justice gave Mr. O'Halloran leave to amend his claim accordingly. He awarded Mr. Bruhn and Mr. Philip the costs of this phase of the action.

KINSMEN CLUB TO AN NEEDY

Contributions for Santa Claus Fund May Be Left at The Times Office

There will be practically no expense as The Times and the Kinsmen speak last Sunday at the Horse Shoe Building but was informed he must hold the meeting on a week night. He found it impossible to finance the renting of the building, and switched to the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. North states he will have something interesting to say but does not know how long it will take him to tell.

The gathering will continue this evening, closing with an inspirational address by Rev. Dr. A. S. Imrie, pastor of Emmanuel Baptist Church.

From 3 to 4 o'clock was the women's hour, the theme of which was "Christ's Challenge to the Women of the Church." This was led with discussions by Mrs. A. H. Marston on "The Challenge of the Local Church," Mrs. W. P. Freeman on "The Challenge of Social Service," and Mrs. C. Spotted on "The Challenge of the Missions." A solo "In the Garden" was rendered by Miss Gladys Marchant.

Declares Liberal Government Doomed

Speaking on Monday evening, P. J. Sinnott, Independent candidate for Victoria, charged Premier Pattullo with "selling out" the recommendations of the Kidd Committee, by failing to adopt a policy of retrenchment and reduce the cabinet to limits comparable with the population of British Columbia and for introducing Major S. J. M. Moodie, the party organizer, as an official at the Parliament Buildings.

He stated that the new government was doomed from its inception by a growing revolt within its own ranks. The political situation, he said, had changed since November, and the people were now clamoring for a strong opposition.

Dealing with the Liberal's "Work and Wage" policy, Mr. Sinnott declared that the Premier never intended a definite plan but was simply going to Ottawa to see what Bennett intended to do. He predicted that the Premier would return empty-handed.

B.C. ATTRACTS NEW CAPITAL

R. H. Gale, Vancouver, Looks for Big Mining Spurt by End of Year

R. Harry Gale, former mayor of Vancouver, who arrived in the city yesterday in connection with his mining interests, expressed the opinion to-day that mining in British Columbia would witness a considerable spurt within the next month.

"The mining industry in the province looks particularly good right now, and outside capital is being brought in for development," he said. "There are evidences of increasing investment of British capital in B.C. mining enterprises, which is a good sign, and I look for much greater development along this line by next year."

Mr. Gale stated he had recently sold a big placer property to English interests at Hixon Creek, located halfway between Quenel and Prince George. More inquiries are being made by British capitalists about B.C. mining properties, he said.

The win definitely put Buffalo in second place in the International League.

The first goal came on a pretty three-way pass. Schultz, Jarvis, Teasdale to Barton, executed perfectly.

Less than a moment later Busher Hollett, with a neat pass, enabled the speedy Jarvis to flash the puck by Moe Roberts, Indian goalie. This all happened with Indiana short two men.

Tiny Teasdale picked up the puck forty feet from the Cleveland goal where it lay unguarded and hammered home a sizzling shot in the last period.

The fourth, Buffalo counter was scored in a five-man attack, when Armand passed from board to board, giving Rock a neat angle shot.

Rocky McDonald, down with Busher Hollett, got credit for a timely assist to make the final counter.

South African Players Making Good; W. Gibb to Turn Out With Chelsea

London, Nov. 22.—With the Arsenal and Tottenham Hotspurs leading the way in English first division football, thousands of fans in London are already looking forward to the return clash between the teams at Highbury on January 27.

There is a snag concerning applications for tickets, however, as the date fixed for the match happens to be the day on which the fourth round of the Football Association Cup will be played.

As it is not anticipated that either of the two clubs will be eliminated so early in the competition it seems that such an attractive fixture will have to be arranged for midweek.

The Arsenal accomplished a fine performance by beating Aston Villa in a game which, although packed with thrills, did not produce the superlatively skillful football anticipated from such a meeting of champions.

The games were very keenly fought throughout. There was a fractional margin of superiority on the part of the winners, though the Villa attacked desperately hard during the greater part of the closing half, but they did not score with the facility which the Londoners sometimes showed.

The Arsenal well led by James Dunne, who scored two of the winner's three goals—making a total of five in two matches—showed slightly more enterprise, although their forward work did not maintain its early excellence.

GIBB JOINS CHELSEA
Old footballers who have taken up coaching appointments abroad, especially those in South Africa, are doing great work for the leading English soccer clubs.

A good word whispered in the ear of a manager has led to more than one foreign player packing his bag for England, and the majority of them have proved "their" clubs.

Liverpool have a penchant for players from South Africa and have five on their books. The success of these players led Bolton Wanderers to sign on J. W. Cochrane, the crack inside-left of the Clyde F. C. Club, Capetown, and now Chelsea have followed suit in signing a Springbok.

Chelsea already have an array of talent, but their present position at the bottom of the league suggests that it has not blended together very well.

Probably realizing the good work done by South African players, the London club has decided to give a trial to one of the best players in the Union.

The eager way in which opportunities of players to show their places in English clubs are snapped up is shown by the fact that Gibb, a sanitary inspector, has asked for leave of absence without pay in order to travel to England for a trial with Chelsea.

The London club has offered to pay Gibb's expenses and will make him an offer if he proves satisfactory.

Cochrane, realizing the possibilities in the field of commercial art, will combine business with pleasure, following his studies in England while playing for Bolton.

Probably the best of the latest arrivals from South Africa is Barry Nieuwenhuis, popularly known on Merseyside as "Rivvyhouse," described as the best outside-right in Transvaal. He has quickly adapted himself to English conditions and is one of the leading lights of the Liverpool attack which, incidentally, includes another South African, Gordon Hodgson.

Other South Africans in Liverpool's ranks are Riley, who has ousted the veteran Irish international, Elisha Scott, Lance Cullen, outside-left, and L. Dewar, a Rhodesian full-back.

COSMOPOLITAN LEAGUE
English soccer is becoming more cosmopolitan as seasons pass by. We have always looked for Scotsmen, Welshmen and Irishmen in our ranks, and the game has been all the better for their inclusion. Of late, however, a goodly number of South African players have been drafted into various teams, but Stoke City, members of the first division, must take the palm for originality.

Recently, for the first time in the history of the football league, a Chinese footballer, Frank Soo, the nineteen-year-old son of a Liverpool laundry proprietor, figured in an English team.

Soo is an inside left, and when he stepped on to the field to play against Middlesbrough, he realized the ambition of his life, for since a small boy he has been a keen player.

Standing 5 feet 7½ inches and weighing 10 stone 13½ pounds, Soo is a player of great promise. His skill, agility and shooting power have made him the idol of the crowd who turn up regularly to see him perform in Stoke's Central League team.

Soo was born at Burton, but when a baby his parents moved to Liverpool. He was drafted into the Liverpool team, but as a footballer he is also a keen roller.

PLAYERS HARD TO GET
Charlton, who are prepared to spend £50,000 in an effort to get into the first division, are despite this financial sacrifice on the part of two of their directors, the Gilkstein brothers, unable to get the players they require.

An offer of £2,000 was made to the Arsenal for David Jack, their inside-right. It has been freely stated that

CHICAGO FINALLY GETS HIM

CHUCK KLEIN

Batting star of the Philadelphia Nationals in the National Baseball League, who has been traded to the Chicago Cubs after four years of trying on the part of the Windy City team. Probably no ball club pursued any player more insistently than the Cubs did Klein, who in six seasons with the Phillies compiled the lifetime major league batting average of .359 and won the 1933 National League batting crown with a mark of .368 or twenty-three points higher than his closest rival. The late William Wrigley Jr. wanted him badly and at one time was reported to have offered $150,000 in cash for a straight sale, only to meet with refusal. Before and after Wrigley's death, the Cubs persisted and the question in the Chicago camp was "When will we get Klein?" Chuck, who bats from the left side of the plate is rated one of the greatest hitters in the history of the game.

There has been a weakness at centre-half in recent matches, and it has been suggested that Micklejohn should fill that position. The shifting about of players, however, is likely to have an upsetting effect, and the selectors are advised to leave well alone.

SCOTLAND VS AUSTRIA
Scotland, beaten 5 to 0 by Austria in Vienna two years ago, have simply got to beat the Austrians in the return match at Hampden Park on November 29, and the selectors are very much perturbed about the composition of their team.

The Austrians, backed by their fine showing against England last December, have got together a combination reputed to be stronger than on that occasion, and they are coming with a full determination to uphold their reputation.

In order to arrive in Scotland five days before the match, and will indulge in training on one of the Glasgow grounds.

Great interest is being shown in the match, and there are only a few tickets left. Defeat would be a national disaster. The selectors know it, and that is why they are worried.

There are two goalkeepers in the running, Kenneyway and Dawson. It is pretty safe to assume that Kenneyway will eventually be selected, but Dawson, who has been showing fine form with the Rangers, is bound to receive recognition sooner or later.

Canadian Football Finals Appear Out; C.R.U. May Disband

Various Champions Refuse to Accept Play-off Proposals of Dominion Body

UNION TO LOSE MAIN REVENUE

Eastern Champions Will Be Determined Saturday; May Have Bad Effect

Toronto, Nov. 22.—The senior football season will wind up quietly, Saturday, with a group of champions content to let the Canadian throne go for a year without an occupant, unless unexpected developments within the next twenty-four hours bring a settlement in a situation apparently hopelessly deadlocked.

At the same time the Canadian Rugby Union may pass out of existence. The revenue that permits the organization to function, is derived from the annual senior playdowns, and if these are done away with this season the C.R.U. may be forced to disband.

The entry fees are not sufficient to cover publication annually of the C.R.U. rule books.

The C.R.U.'s chief function has been to standardize football rules across Canada. It is feared if the union is permitted to collapse, the various leagues, working entirely on their own, may adopt new rules that would be devoid of standardization.

It was pointed out that the C.R.U. has no other revenue than an annual fee paid by the three eastern unions and the Western Canada Rugby Football Union, in addition to its "take" from Dominion championships in games.

Victoria Bike Rider and LePage Have Point Lead in Minneapolis Race

Four Teams Tied for Top in Laps; Marathon Will End This Evening

think there are many," President C. H. Corkum of the British Columbia Amateur Ice Hockey Association said.

Informing of the ruling, Clarence Boucher, member of the New York Americans in the National Hockey League from 1925 to 1928, said he was more interested in coaching amateurs than in playing himself, and said he did not think he would take advantage of the reinstatement clause.

Edmonton, Nov. 22.—Three former Edmonton hockey players, all prominent members of amateur teams here, Lloyd McIntyre, Isaac "Phat" Pauler and Lindsay Carver will at last get a chance to be back in the game, as a result of decision of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada to allow reinstatement of amateurs.

Toronto, Nov. 22.—The bars are really down for the reformed professional athlete who wants to get back into amateur competition, it was explained yesterday by W. A. Hewitt, secretary of the Ontario Hockey Association. But the professional hockeyist who desires to play amateur this winter will have to move quickly in order to qualify.

The ruling of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada last week at Winnipeg, permitting professionals who have not played for three years to make application for amateur cards, is effective at once.

Decisions of one-time pros who cannot make a living any more from hockey are marched to apply.

EXPLAINS PLANS
Hewitt explained the procedure for hockey players as follows:

In Ontario, players must write to the secretary of the Ontario Hockey Association, applying for an amateur card. The application is to be accompanied by $5.

They will be forwarded a form to be filled out and returned to the secretary and on the basis of the information contained in the form and the information the O.H.A. already has regarding the applicant, the O.H.A. will pass on the case.

The O.H.A. recommendation in each case will be sent to the district A.A.U. branch for final decision.

Interpreting the A.A.U. of Canada's intention to open the way for all former professionals after a three-year playing lapse who are not "undesirables," whether or not an athlete's return to the amateur fold is desirable to amateur authorities is a matter for the governing body of the sport in which he participated and his A.A.U. branch to decide.

Hockey players who intend making application for amateur cards must have their cases passed before December 31 to be eligible to play this season, Hewitt said.

Sudbury, Nov. 22.—Sudbury's colony of former professional hockey players rejoiced yesterday at the decision of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada to restore amateur status to players who have been out of the game for three years.

Sammy Rothchild, former Montreal Maroon player, intends to organize a team and W. (Shirley) Green, who starred in past years with New York Americans, Tulsa Oilers and Hamilton Tigers, said he will take the job once more.

Other players include Alex McKinnon, Jack Duncan, Fred Faught, Red Green, Gerald Green, Steve Yankoski, Cecil Daley, Joe Ironstone and Babe Donnelly.

Vancouver, Nov. 22.—Buling by the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada that reformed professionals may re-enter competition amateurs will probably have little effect as far as British Columbia hockey circles are concerned.

"Offhand I couldn't say how many former professional hockey players there are in the province, but I don't

Force Married Daughter to Set Up Own Home, Dorothy Dix Urges Work-worn Mother. Handsome Husband Requires Tactful Handling

DEAR MISS DIX—Do you think it is the proper thing for married people to live with their parents or go to themselves? My married daughter has lived with me for four years and she makes much more work for me. I would like for her to go to herself, but if I tell her so she won't like it. However, I do not feel that I can stand the work any longer, as I have three single boys to take care of. What shall I do? A TIRED MOTHER.

Answer—Even the birds have enough sense to shove their young out of the nest when they are grown, and it does look as if human beings should have an equal amount of intelligence.

No young couple have a right to get married until they are able to set up their own independent homes. It is an imposition for them to come and settle down on their parents and graft their living off the old people.

Only too many boys and girls do this. They have so little independence of character and so little spirit of fair play that rather than wait until they are ready to meet the responsibilities of matrimony they take unto themselves husbands and wives and bring them back home for mother and father to support.

In only too many households instead of the parents being relieved of the burden of their children's support when they are grown, they are saddled with more mouths to feed, more backs to clothe.

The youngsters will have to do a lot of hustling and make many sacrifices and have a lot of anxieties and cares if they set up their own homes that they will escape if they go and live on mother and father, but it is just precisely this experience that they need to develop them. It will toughen the muscles of their souls and do them good as long as they live.

There is something radically wrong about a young couple who don't want their own home. Especially is there something wrong about a woman who doesn't long for her own home. It shows that she is lazy. She isn't willing to do the work that it takes to make a home, and the sooner she is cured of this vice, the better.

Moreover, Satan still finds work for idle hands to do, and he furnishes it a-plenty for the young wife who boards, or lives with mother and lets mother do it. It is the idle young wives who haunt the stores and the movies, who get so bored that they get into flirtations in their hunt for thrills.

So poor, tired mother, for the good of your daughter's soul and your own peace and comfort, make her and her husband go to housekeeping, and serve notice on all your other children that they have to set up their own homes when they get married and that they can't bring their husbands and wives to live with you.

Have as much brains as an English sparrow. Push your youngsters out of the nest and make them try their own wings.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—What can a wife do with a handsome husband that all the women fall for? I have one of these sheiks. Recently a girl that I supposed was my friend has been calling him up and begging him to take her riding. She even goes to his place of business. I told her to let him alone and she got mad and told him he was a fool for telling his wife everything. So my husband is peeved with me. WORRIED WIFE.

Answer—The woman who marries a handsome man, who is particularly attractive to other women, tackles a hard job. She will have a life-long fight to keep him. Even the best of men are flattered by the admiration and attention of women, and so far as we know Joseph is the only man on record who ever ran away from temptation. The common or garden variety of man hastens to meet it.

You are wise to face the fact that women will always try to make a fool of your husband, but, having admitted that to yourself, also face the fact that jealousy will get you nowhere. If you get green-eyed over every woman who ogles him and makes scenes, you will merely drive him into their arms. He will go from a wife who scolds him and upbraids him and tells him what a poor, weak creature he is to let himself be led into silly entanglements, straight to those other women who flatter and cajole him and pour oil over his wounded vanity.

So your best play is to summon a sense of humor to your aid. Tease him about his conquests. Laugh at them. Banter him about being taken in by wiles that a baby could see through. Ridicule him for being the victim of elderly coquettes, with dyed hair and painted faces. Make him see his ladyloves through your eyes and you will dispel his illusions about them.

I have known women who have taken these tactics with husbands who were fascinations, and in that way they were able to keep their husbands' flirtations as a family joke instead of their becoming serious, and so averted tragedy. Also, they kept their husbands' confidence because they laughed instead of having hysterics.

Never ask a woman to leave your husband alone. It humiliates you and makes her all the more determined to keep him. No woman will give up the man she wants to please his wife. If she regarded the wife's feelings, she wouldn't take him in the first place.

DOROTHY DIX.

A Journey to Persia

CITY LIFE

Would you like a flat loaf of bread? If so, you can go to a Persian city and get one. Persians prefer to make their bread in the form of thin sheets. Bakers place the bread in stacks in front of their bakeries; and the customer is able to have a close view of it without any paper between his eyes and the bread. Flies and other insects also are able to learn something of what the bread is like.

Moving along the streets are four-footed beasts—camels, donkeys, horses, mules, and the like. In the path of an ancient caravan route which stretches from the Caspian sea to the Persian gulf. This accounts for the presence of the famed "whips of the desert."

When a Persian goes to the grocery, he is able to buy rice, dried beans, lentils, onions, tomatoes and other vegetables. He also has a choice of many kinds of fruits—apples, peaches, grapes, melons, pomegranates. He may also purchase soap, matches, sugar, dried raisins and nuts. The grocery is an open-air affair, an opening in the wall lining the street. Here, again, the flies are able to feast; but Persians have not learned much about the danger from insects which light on the food of people.

Some streets in Teheran are no more than narrow, winding alleys; but in the northern part of town the streets and the buildings are newer and more modern. There are wide avenues lined with shade trees, and there are homes set in the midst of flower gardens. This is the section where princes, wealthy merchants and foreign diplomats live. (For Travel section of your scrapbook.)

The "Surprise Leaflet" will be mailed without charge to readers who send me a stamped, return envelope. This leaflet contains riddles, and tells how to perform magic tricks.

To-morrow—Farming in Persia.

EX-BROKER ENDS LIFE

Berkeley, Calif., Nov. 22 (Associated Press).—Charles L. Parker, sixty-nine, retired broker, shot himself to death yesterday. He had been worried over failing health and finances, said Mrs. Bertha Parker, the widow, reporting the shooting to the police. Parker is survived by a son, Charles L. Parker, of Turlock, and a daughter, Mrs. O. G. Ward, of Berkeley.
